PITTSBURGH FEARS FLOOD

Hold Youths For Attack On Elderly Pair

Posse Captures Two Youths After Attack Is Reported Near Butler

STATE POLICE SAY CONFESSION MADE

One Of Victims Is Reported As Near Death—Aged Man Badly Beaten

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., April 26.—Captured by an enraged posse at Bakerstown, near here, today feppish youths who attacked a helpless, elderly couple were held in the state police barracks while one of their victims lay near death in the hospital.

The youths, who confessed, according to police, to beating George Behringer, 67, into unconsciousness, and then attacking his wife, Catherine, 62, were identified as Arthur Kramer, 22, and Kenneth Pestheck, 22. The latter had lived with the Behringers and was regarded by them as a foster son, according to police.

Tells Story and Faints.

The attack was discovered when Mrs. Behringer crept from her home on the Butler pike near Bakerstown to the home of a neighbor where she gasped out the story. As she fainted, the neighbor, R. L. Heckert, rushed to her home where he found Behringer lying in a blood-soaked bed. He had been struck with a milk bottle, which shattered, and his hands were lashed with twine and bound to the bed.

Postmaster Carl Heckert, who six years ago routed another pair of robbers in a running gun battle, was summoned and quickly organized a posse. On the Deer Creek road, near Bairford, they spotted the youths. Both surrendered without a struggle as the men drew up and poked guns at them from an automobile.

Miss Beulah Heaton, missionary daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Heaton of Northview avenue, mailed a letter from the Philippine Islands on April 16 and it had arrived in New Castle on April 22—five days of travel. It crossed the Pacific by China Clipper and made the rest of the trip by air also. The fee used to be 75 cents per half ounce; it is now only 50 cents. Miss Heaton gets The News and its arrival causes a great deal of excitement on the island of Cuyo where there are only a few white people and 23,000 natives. After the paper is thoroughly read the children color the pictures.

Local streams did not rise very rapidly this morning, but with an increase in the rain shortly after noon, higher stages are looked for locally. At the present time, the streams are not near the flood stage. The Shenango had risen only seven-tenths of a foot from 9 o'clock to 12:30 this afternoon. At noon, the Neshannock was stationary.

Daylight savings time became effective on Sunday in New York, Pittsburgh, and other eastern metropolitan centers. The only effect locally was some changes in train and bus schedules, and time changes in radio programs.

Incessant rains of the past couple of days have sent the streams throughout the district up several feet.

High water stages in the streams today, will halt much successful fishing for trout for some time, fishermen report.

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 26.—Four persons were dead today and a fifth believd dying in a shotgun massacre staged by a young husband, John Owens, 25, at the home of his estranged wife, Mrs. Sarah White Owens, 21.

While his terrified three-year-old daughter, Jeanette, looked on helplessly, Owens killed his wife; her mother, Mrs. Martha White, 54; her brother, Chester, 20, with a shotgun, then probably fatally wounded his father-in-law, Benjamin White, 56.

PARIS, April 26.—His royal highness the Duke of Windsor will speed to the Chateau De Cande near Tours to join Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson the moment her divorce decree is made final in London on May 3, this correspondent learned from an authoritative source today.

Within a day or two after his arrival at the magnificient chateau where Mrs. Simpson has been staying in recent weeks, he will issue a statement to the press giving the date, place and details of their forthcoming marriage.

"It is practically certain," this correspondent's informant said, "that the marriage will take place at the Chateau De Cande within six weeks' time.

New Bridge May Be Needed

Commissioners Find Harrison Bridge Over Slippery Rock Badly Wrecked

SPAN IS PUSHED INTO RIVER BED

In all probability a new bridge will be necessary over the Slippery Rock creek to replace the Harrison bridge which was piled up in the creek bed Saturday when Edward Spicer crashed the east supports of the bridge with a load of coal. The bridge fell into the creek as though a tornado had hit it.

The accident was a freak one. Spicer claims that his brake bands had burned out coming down the long hill that leads into the coal mine district near Portersville. By the time the truck reached the foot of the hill it was out of control and crashed into the steel superstructure. The impact was so terrific that the supports at either end were cracked off and the bridge dropped into the creek taking the truck with it. Spicer was slightly injured.

If it is possible to use the steel of the old bridge this will be done, according to County Commissioners George H. Bolinger and Floyd L. Cotton. However a cursory exam-

He was cited by the French government with a decoration equivalent to the Croix De Guerre, and was the only Ohio physician to be a member of that Eclat Club, composed of 25 surgeons who served overseas.

He had been in ill health since he suffered a stroke two years ago.

Streams Rise With Big Rain

Downpour Exceeds Two Inches In Twenty-Four Hour Period Here

SHENANGO HAS RISEN FOUR FEET

Local streams were considerably swollen today, following a downpour which registered over two inches of precipitation in the twenty-four hour period from 9 o'clock Sunday morning to nine o'clock this morning.

The Shenango River rose over four feet during this time, standing at 11.2 feet this morning. Sunday morning, the stage was 7 feet even. The Neshannock, a smaller stream, had risen fully as much and was up toward the top of its banks in the low spots.

There is little danger of a flood here unless there should be considerably more rain. The flood stage of the Shenango is a little better than 16 feet, which tage has been reached twice in the last year without endangering the city.

The total rainfall since Saturday has been 2.22 inches, which is an unusually heavy downpour.

A few months later he, with his wife and two children, sailed for the foreign field and arrived at Latakia, November 22, 1888.

Local Entrants Awarded Honors In Music Event

Five New Castle Music Contest Competitors Eligible For National Meet

NEW WILMINGTON IS ALSO WINNER

New Castle and district entrants in the 10 annual Pennsylvania Music and Forensic contest, which closed in Altoona, Pa., Saturday evening, made good showings in the finals. New Castle Senior high carried off two second places, Shenango high, a third place, and New Wilmington high school was awarded a second place.

The high school, always standing high in instrumental music in the state contests, added to its laurels when the first boy's quartet ever entered in a state meet, carried off second place, in a close race with Norristown, winner of the first place honors. In another department, Shakespeare reading, Miss Virginia Mariana, trained by Miss Elsie McGeorge was given second place, permitting her to enter the national contest, and compete for national honors. Marjorie Vaughn, the other speaking entrant was awarded fifth place in the contest.

Those in the quartet include: Cliff Proctor, first tenor; Joseph Proctor, second tenor; Ben Jenkins, baritone; and Richard Cramer, bass. This group is also eligible for entrance in the national music contest. These boys competed against eight quartets in the county, eight in the district, and eight in the state to win the honors. A great deal of credit for the quartets success goes to Charles Schmitt, a student teacher from Westminster college, who coached the group, and to Professor Replogle, music instructor.

Shenango township's entrant, Miss Elizabeth Koski, piano player, came home from Altoona with third place honors, while Turtle Creek came off with top place. New Wilmington entered a class C. mixed chorus and was awarded second place honors, making the group eligible for national competition.

Senate Committee To Start Secret Parley On Court Proposal

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 26—A "one new justice a year" compromise was urged on the senate judiciary committee today by Senator Hatch (D) of New Mexico, on the eve of its secret deliberations over President Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization plan.

The Hatch proposal would authorize any president to name a new justice anually to the nation's highest tribunal if sitting justices were over 75 years of age. It would forbid the filling of vacancies except to keep the court's membership from falling below nine justices and would forbid more than one appointment in any calendar year. Hatch offered it as a permanent plan for injecting "new blood" into the supreme court.

It was one of several compromises advanced by so-called "non-committal" senators, who have not yet announced whether they would support the president's request for

Will Give City Site For Street

Round Offers 70 Foot Street Route To City In Rosena Acreage

WOULD CONNECT MILL AND JEFFERSON

Louis B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power company today met with council in open meeting at the city building and Round informed council that upon the passage of necessary legislation the company would turn over to the city sufficient ground on the Rosena site for a 70-foot wide street between South Mill and South Jefferson streets. The consideration will be $1.00, he said.

The city has for some time endeavored to find a method of lightening the traffic load in Washington street, downtown section, and it is believed that, when the new street is put through and improved, it will prove a relief.

Under the terms of the company's offer the city can use none of the ground which the company plans to give to the city for commercial purposes.

Round also asked that the city establish building lines in order that their plans can be put through in conformity with the building lines.

The street must be curbed and paved within two calendar years and sidewalks must also be laid at the city's expense, according to the offer.

Upon motion of Councilman J. M. Rice, the council instructed the city solicitor prepare the proper legislation for acceptance of the ground for the thoroughfare.

Forecaster Says 30-Foot Stage May Be Reached At Pittsburgh

New flood threats from rain-swollen streams arose today to pleague flood-weary western Pennsylvanians.

Low-lying sections throughout the entire western half of the state were flooded. In many sections residents were evacuated. Rural roads along creeks were impassable. Trains were being rerouted.

At Washington, State Senator William B. Rodgers, president of the tri-state authority and the U. S. flood control federation, made a fervent plea for flood protection before the national rivers and harbors congress.

The farmer likes the rains of spring, unless they come too thick and fast, and this one is a bit too much, he hopes the rainfall will not last. He'd sooner save a lot of it, to use say sometime in July, when corn and wheat are drooping down and every thing is brown and dry. For then the rain is worth a heap, but now there's more than he can use, but like the rest of us I guess he hasn't got the right to choose the weather, be it dry or wet, that's not for him or you to say, he simply takes it as it is, the weather's fifty-two today.

NEW BRIDGE MAY BE NEEDED

ination seems to indicate that this would not be feasible.

No Bridge This Year

One thing seems to be certain and that is there will be no bridge at this point for the balance of the year. The Harrison bridge was 128 feet long and it is estimated that a new bridge will cost not less than $40,000.

Before anything is done a board of viewers must be appointed, the commissioners say, and their report of the condition must be filed with the court. Plans would have to be drawn, bids advertised, contracts let and then would come the construction.

The highway on which this bridge is located is a township highway and has never been taken over by the state. Unless the present general assembly takes over this highway and the bridge, the responsibility for erecting a new bridge would be the county commissioners'.

Back of that comes the responsibility for the damage. This will probably mean a suit to determine whether or not the company operating the truck is liable.

States and Turkey. Among the most trying of the many experiences through which he passed as a missionary were the terrible Armenian massacres of 1895-96, and 1909-15. The latter was connected with the great deportation of Christians, resulting from Turkey's entrance into the World War. He himself was deported to Konia, in October of 1917, to the time of the Armistice, under the false charge of acting as a spy for the Allies.

Served As Moderator

During oneof his furloughs he served as moderator of synod at Winona Lake, Ind., in 1910. The same year he was honored with the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Geneva College.

Through his whole period of labors in Syria he strove successfully to raise the standard of teaching in all the mission schools. To this end he urged the use of vowveled reading books, by which alone, exactness could be attained. While the preaching of the gospel was his life work, and the Boys' School which he supervised for more than 20 years, was his special charge, yet he always took the deepest interest in the village schools and congregations and gave his very best to them.

Stewart in Jerusalem, Palestine, a brother, Prof. T. A. Stewart of Salem, N. Y. and a sister, Mrs. S. B. McClelland of Orange, Cal.

Bert J. Ross Dies At Florida Home

Former Manager Of New Castle Tin Mill Is Taken By Death

Bert J. Ross, a well known former resident of this city, one time manager of the New Castle tin mill, died on Sunday at his home in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he had been since his retirement from the tin business.

Mr. Ross' death was not unexpected. Although he was not old in years he had been ill for quite some time, suffering from a severe throat ailment. His condition in the past week had become increasingly worse.

Mr. Ross had been away from New Castle for many years but had a great many local friends. There are also a number of first cousins residing here, among them Mrs. R. B. Jameson, Mrs. John Connery, Mrs. Cassius Balph, Mrs. J. F. Genkinger, Mrs. Fred Clemens, and Mrs. D. S. Pyle. Roy Sippey, of Douglas, Arizona, is also a cousin.

After leaving New Castle, he went to Aliquippa, where he was superintendent of a large plant, and then went to Wellsville, O., where he took charge of another large plant. He retired a number of years ago and went south.

Surviving are, his wife, Maude Phillips Ross, a member of an old New Castle family, daughter of the late Rev. J. T. Phillips, and six married children.

No word concerning funeral arrangements have been received here as yet.

DUKE OF WINDSOR TO JOIN MRS. SIMPSON AS DIVORCE IS FINAL

the chateau immediately after Mrs. Simpson's divorce becomes final next week.

"Preparations to receive him are now being made at the chateau, the Duke and Mrs. Simpson will make their final arrangements as soon as possible, and I am quite sure they will issue a statement to the press by the end of next week, giving full details of their marriage plans and otherwise 'clearing the air.'"

The informant, who desired that his name be withheld, said the Duke and Mrs. Simpson had decided to have their former Riviera host, the popular Herman L. Rodgers, continue as their liaison with the press, and that certain newspaper representatives and cameramen might be permitted to attend the wedding.

Mrs. Simpson, in the best of health, played a round of golf today with Clarence "Buzzie" Hughes of Virginia, a former member of the American diplomatic service assigned to Peiping, who is an old friend of Rodgers.

May Postpone Reunion

London, April 26.—Mrs. Wallis Simpson has told the Duke of Windsor that she is perfectly willing to postpone their reunion and wedding arrangements until after the coronation of King George if Edward thinks advisable.

She furthermore informed the duke that it might be best to do this, since the British government and court circles consider the publicity bound to surround their reunion undesirable on what would be virtually the eve of the coronation.

This willingness to make a sacrifice in the interests of Edward's duty to the British monarchy was conveyed by Mrs. Simpson to the duke both by letter and during their telephonic conversations in the evening.

Mrs. Simpson, it was learned exclusively today, told Edward she would prefer to prolong their enforced separation a little longer, rather than have him made the subject of further criticism from ecclestiastic and Old Guard quarters in England.

The Duke of Windsor, however, was represented as being reluctant to acquiesce in any further prolongation of the separation, since he is most impatient to see the American again.

But strong pressure is being brought to bear on him from London, and he may agree.

DRINKING FOX GONE

Jacko, a fox kept as a pet at Brookland, England, has answered the 'call of the wild" and vanished. His master is searching for him. Jacko was a great friend of his owner's two dogs. His favorite drink was beer, and he preferred rice pudding to meat. He was also very fond of strawberries, candy and nuts, so it is hoped he will return to "high living."

DELAY ACTION ON 'FAIR TRADE' BILL

shipment of goods shall be subject to the "fair trade" laws of 38 states. Under these laws, upheld by the supreme court within the past year, manufacturers and retailers can agree to maintain resale prices.

Decision to delay the bill, reported to have been arrived at following conferences with administration officials, followed a blast at high prices by three leading New Deal economists.

The bill has been defended as a measure to abolish the "loss leader" practice in retailing and to aid independent retailers in their fight against chains.

When the bill was before the House rules committee, Rep. Cox (D) of Georgia, labelled it a "price-fixing" measure to reinstate price-fixing provisions in NRA codes.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO START SECRET PARLEY ON COURT PROPOSAL

power to appoint six new justices at once, if those justices now over 70 years of age fail to retire like the others. The Hatch proposal met with immediate opposition from administration leaders.

Foes of the president's plan also announced they would vote in committee against any compromise. They insisted upon a finish fight on the six new-justices plan.

It appeared the committee was definitely committed against any compromise, due to an alliance between administration senators and the opposition. This left the "compromise bloc" in a minority.

It appeared also that the administration would be unable to secure a favorable report from the committee on the presidential plan. This seemed likely, due to an alliance between the "compromise bloc" and the direct oppositionists.

Belief prevailed the committee ultimately will report the president's plan to the senate without any specific recommendation and accompanied by three or four reports. One report would urge its enactment into law, a second its outright defeat and the others recommending some form of compromise.

The general opinion seems to be that preachers shouldn't mix in politics except to support the great moral reforms we favor.

MODESTO, Cal., April 26.—Two men were killed, a third was critically injured, and six other persons hurt when a northbound Pacific Greyhound stage collided with an automobile eight miles north of here today.

There is nothing remarkable in the effectiveness of the sit-down strike. Any violation of law will work where officials are scared.

DINNER AFFAIRS HONOR BIRTHDAY

To make the eleventh birthday of Charles Reed, of North Mercer street, memorable this year, his mother, Mrs. J. L. Reed, and Miss Ethel Moore, entertained at dinner Saturday evening in the latter's home on Park avenue.

Eight boys and fourteen grown-ups comprised the guest list, the whole affair being a surprise to the guest of honor. He received a collection of gifts.

The main attraction at the children's table was a big birthday cake, while flowers adorned other tables for the adults, with pink and white for the color scheme. Aides were Mrs. L. W. Kisthart, daughter Winifred and Miss Betty Reed.

As Charles' birthday fell on April 22, he was again honored on Friday evening when Miss Emma Moore entertained at a small dinner party downtown for him and two others whose birthdays also occurred last week, Mrs. Elizabeth Moosman and Miss Minnie Davidson.

There were covers for eight with appointments of a pastel nature.

BOBBIE MARTIN HAS BIRTHDAY

Nine little fellows, members of a Sunday school class at Highland U. P. church, and their teacher, Miss Ethel Moore, helped young Bobbie Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Martin of Delaware avenue, celebrate his sixth birthday Saturday, the real day occurring on Friday, April 23.

Games were played, much to the delight of the youngsters, until time came for supper, when a tempting menu was served by Mrs. Martin, assisted by Miss Moore. A birthday cake, of course, formed the centerpiece, and there were favors in everything to make the occasion delightful.

Bobbie, who is the eldest grandson of Supt. and Mrs. C. C. Green of Sheridan avenue, received many useful gifts.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY OF FORMER RESIDENTS

Many New Castle people helped celebrate with Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Bagnall, of Struthers, former well known New Castle residents, the latter's silver wedding anniversary which occurred Sunday, April 25.

A family dinner was held at 12:30 noon in the Woman's City club, Youngstown, where a cosy home background in ivory, provided a delightful setting. Table decorations were in silver and white, a mound of white rosebuds and gardenias with green foliage, being used for the centerpiece, and at the woman's places were single gardenias as favors. Slender tapers in silver holders flanked either side.

Among guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gorley, Mrs. Grace Crill, Orville H. Chain, all of New Castle; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bagnall, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bagnall, of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Hobart, of Cincinnati; Miss Jessie Arbuckle, of New York City.

In the afternoon the group motored to the Bagnall home in Struthers, O., where a reception was held for guests attending from Mercer, Greenville, Youngstown and Volant. The home was decorated with many lovely flowers which were among a collection of beautiful gifts received by the honorees.

In connection with the anniversary observance, it is interesting to local residents who formerly knew the Bagnall family, to recall that from New Castle they went to Connellsville, where they were located for a number of years. Later they moved to Youngstown, when Mr. Bagnall became associated with the Truscon Steel Company. He is now connected with the Republic Iron and Steel Company at Struthers.

Mrs. Bagnall was the former Clara Penrose, of this city. They have one daughter, Marietta, who is doing state educational work.

BEGINS WITH HOME TRAINING

THAT crime prevention begins with the home training of the young should be evident to anyone giving the subject thought.

The trouble is that too many people don't bother to think about it. Yet, as the administrative assistant to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, L. B. Nichols, succinctly expressed it in a recent address, "If we are to prevent crime, we must begin with the high-chair instead of the electric chair."

Mr. Nichols had some other things to say worth recording: "Schools must mold character as well as craftsmanship"; "The house where youth sometimes finds his parents must be a home and not a hovel"; "Crackpot criminologists, slobbering sob-sisters and fickle Freud reformers must be viewed in their true character"; "Prisons must be depopulated by true preventive measures instead of ill-administered schemes and theories."

Such well-delivered thrusts are valuable in attracting attention to the fact that combating crime is a responsibility of all citizens and not merely of law-enforcement officers. Those who help youths to overcome the handicaps of defective homes, evil companions and inadequate interests are helping to prevent crime.

PHILIPPINE FREEDOM

What to do with the Philippines is a problem growing more complex as the days pass. President Quezon of the Philippine Commonwealth, not satisfied with complete dissolution in 1946 of the ties with the United States, would advance the time to next year or the year after. That would mean the end, of course, of free trade with the United States, and Philippine exports to this country—coconut oil, cigars, sugar and pearl buttons, to mention the most important—would suffer accordingly.

President Quezon and his advisers, far from being dismayed at what, under other circumstances, would be a threat that the exports of the commonwealth would dry up, feel they have a powerful leverage to command a basis on which they can trade with us to advantage. They are certain that this country will be entirely willing to enter into a reciprocal trade agreement with them. This feeling is based, first upon the ties that have bound the islands to us since the Spanish-American War and, second, on recent discoveries of vast gold deposits and perhaps the largest supply of chromium ore that exists anywhere in the world.

A joint preparatory committee of American and Philippine experts is beginning to study trade relationship between the two countries when independence shall become absolute and the preferential relationship the islands now enjoy will come to an end. This is in realization that independence will necessitate a prior and thorough readjustment of the Philippine national economy.

SHERLOCK THE GREAT

The celebration in London of the fiftieth anniversary of Sherlock Holmes' arrival on the literary scene is a reminder that not only authors, but creations of their fancy may have their following of enthusiastic fans.

Just as confirmed Dickensians make their pious pilgrimages to Rochester and Ipswich and ancient inns in London Borough, so admirers of probably the most distinctive figure in detective fiction have been visiting 221 B. Baker street, or at least the house that would bear that label except for the eccentric system of numbering in London, and exchanging tributes to the master sleuth's sensational exploits.

Critics of Doyle from the purely literary viewpoint have had their inning. A generation of detective story readers in a world of radio police cars and criminals with machine guns may derive no thrill today from Sherlock Holmes' quiet but unerring deductions. They may laugh at the mental density of poor Dr. Watson, who would nowadays be termed a "stooge," playing up to the main performer.

But the fact remains that in taking for his model a combination of Poe's famous French detectives and a professor under whom Doyle studied medicine at Edinburgh, the author gave literary life to a character whose name for half a century has been a household word the world over. It has passed into the language as a synonym for a master detective and is so employed by many persons who have never read one of Doyle's stories.

Granted that a re-reading of Sherlock Holmes today is rather disillusioning to the oldsters, how many of his modern fictional successors are destined to achieve the lasting fame of the wizard of Baker Street?

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PARENTS VISIT SCHOOL

A former teacher and mother of a girl finishing junior year at college and a son "just getting along" in eighth grade, writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers: Did you not say you would like discussion on parents' visiting in school...Twenty years back, when I taught, we were pretty sure parents were objecting when they came to school at all. But frankly, those who came and stayed often worried me and interfered with both my programs and my pupils...They nearly all had an eye single to their children and its problems....

"Then when I really needed help and so appealed to them, usually it was impossible for them to believe their children were much, or just, like other children after all....

"I never had any trouble with parents, to speak of, and usually had cooperation from them and always from my principal and my school board, but I surely have tried to use my experience to the benefit of my own children and their teachers.

"If you advise parents to visit schools more, Dr. Myers, suggest that they use plain good manners, common sense and thoughtfulness.

"If parents of the more fortunate children would be more thoughtful of other children when they visit and flaunt superiorities, it would save little heartaches.

Teach Children to "Take It"

"We can't be quite sure what we would do under certain circumstances, but so far we've never tolerated the idea of changing teachers or schools because our children didn't react properly. After all, they have to learn to 'take it', and school's a pretty good place to begin. A mother of an adolescent boy was discussing moving into another part of town because Son simply could not get along with the teachers here. Most of the other mothers agreed—I was slightly unpopular with her when I said, 'I would certainly do nothing of the kind, but would work the problem out from a different angle.' I'm repaid to see him happily finishing right here in his own school with former classmates.

"I don't mean that I do not go to our school. I do, but only for helps with my end of the problems or to help teachers if they want me, and of course on gala days... Last year when we decided to take my son to the west coast we consulted the teachers before we decided to go. I've never received such cooperation and consideration."

THE TWO-SPOT

EVER PLAY that card game called "Pedro"? If you have, then you know the importance of the two of trumps. The two five-spots of th same color, the pedroes, count five points apiece. The ten of trumps counts one point. The jack counts one point. The Ace counts a point and is the highest card; no one can take it from you. But though the two-spot is the lowest trump, it also belongs to the one who plays it. Even if it falls under an ace, it is the property of the player to whom it is dealt, and counts for him and his partner.

Everybody is interested in the ace. It is the top. It stands high and represents good fortune, glory, victory, the gold spoon in the mouth, outstanding personality, great abilities, astounding luck, opportunity and achievement and talent and genius in our human affairs.

But the two of trumps, although not imposing or spectacular, has qualities of its own. It represents those qualities in a man that are his and his alone and may not be taken from him. The quiet courage that endures all storms and cannot be beaten down. Slow patience and persisting hope and undefeated faith. Self-respect that does not bow the knee to spouting arrogance. Surviving love and hidden beauty. Decency that lives unspoiled, joy that survives the storm, and kindness that knows no bitterness or cynicism.

The two spot is the seed that becomes the mighty tree. It is the welding that makes the break in the beam stronger than ever. It is the structure of the skull beneath the winsome charm. It is the core, the foundation, the perpetual motion at the center of all our ceaseless activity.

If I am playing Pedro and have all the high cards AND the little two spot, I can shoot the moon and win the game in one deal of the cards...But if I have every high card and have NOT that little card the moon is beyond my reach until the cards are dealt again.

A misprint occurred in printing the bill and an "S" was placed before the word "having," which resulted in a law which limited membership in a credit union to "persons shaving a common employer." The error was discovered and sent back to the committee for amendment. That's probably how a lot of fool laws we have in this state were passed.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office.

By Francine Markel

DEAR MISS MARKEL—Please give me information on tipping while aboard ship. I am planning a European trip and have no idea as to what I should give—A. S. M.

Answer—On board ship, tipping is almost an obligatory item of expense. The amount varies with the length of the voyage, the type of steamer and the class in which the voyager travels.

The proper tips, given by each first-class passenger occupying an average room for six or 10 days, are: $5 each to the room steward or stewardess, the deck steward, the dining room steward and the lounge steward. The chef and chief steward should be tipped if you have received some special favors from them; otherwise, it is unnecessary.

If you have had your meals in your rooms, your steward or stewardess should be given more than that specified above. If you have had your meals on deck, your tip to the deck steward should be more generous than that suggested.

Give your bath steward or stewardess from $1.50 to $2.50. Any other steward or stewardness who has given you special attention should likewise be remembered.

When you are in doubt as to what should be given, your travel agent will be only too pleased to give you such information.

These gratuities are given directly to the stewards at the end of the voyage.

Wall Street Has Fears
Spending Will Continue
Money Will Be Kept Cheap

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnist

WALL STREET sees no serious check to spending—at least for the next several months—in President Roosevelt's economy proposals.

For one thing, the proposals do not offer any check on the present inflationistic trend.

In the second place, huge sums still will be needed for relief. The relief situation is, in fact, in a worse muddle than ever. The total sums to be spent this next fiscal year by federal, state and municipal governments will not likely show diminution.

WAGES SPUR RISE

For one thing, increased wages will spur on rising prices—not so much because the cost of labor as the increased spending.

Companies, too, are spending more—perhaps far beyond their real earning capacity. Some corporation executives who denounce government "waste" may have to make an accounting of their own at the year-end.

CAN IT BE DONE?

The Roosevelt administration needs legerdermain in its check-inflation policy. The problem is this:

1. To check "speculative" spirals.
2. To keep living costs within reason.
3. To retain "normal" profits and high wages.
4. But not to lower farm prices.

INTEREST DOWN

Long term interest rates will be held down by the government. Money will be kept cheap.

Financiers do not like this. Nor do large investing institutions, such as insurance companies. Their sit-down strike remains.

The government is determined to break it without giving in on interest. That means continued heavy support of the market on U. S. bonds by the government.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

IT CAN BE DONE

During 1936, traffic deaths and accidents reached new highs. Yet a number of cities and towns managed to lower casualties in spite of the general trend. Six of these cities, in different population brackets, were the winners of the fifth national traffic safety contest conducted by the National Safety Council.

The Council has now published outlines of the programs pursued by these committees. The program of the smallest town, Wilmette, Ill., is of exceptional interest, in that it could be pursued, in a modified or enlarged manner, by practically every community in America.

Wilmette reduced its accident deaths exactly 100 per cent, from three in 1935 to none in 1936 and its injuries 31 per cent. It adopted the following plan:

Law enforcement was strict—arrests totaled 152 in 1936 as against 51 the preceding year. Magistrate and prosecutor cooperated vigorously. High school students convicted of dangerous driving were "fined" by making them write theses on safety.

Traffic checks were made periodically and when necessary streets were widened and resurfaced. All members of the police force attended classes in accident prevention.

The village conducted a drivers' safety school in cooperation with three other nearby villages. The police department was kept free from politics—no one had a "pull".

Extensive accident prevention work was carried on consistently in schools.

Here is a synopsis of the kind of safety program that produces results. No community to small to follow the principles laid down, in an effective manner.

THE TWO SIDES

One woman sighed: "I never make
A cocoanut or chocolate cake
And put it on the pantry shelf
But what that child will help himself.

"If for an hour I'm gone from here
Always the cookies disappear.
To keep a chocolate cake for tea
I lock it up and hide the key.

It isn't safe when I go out
To leave the candy jar about.
For every sweetmeat in the urn,
Will vanish long ere I return."

A neighbor said: "By day and night
I'm sure mine is the sadder plight,
However long I am away
Untouched my cakes and pies will stay.

"My candy jar for weeks will stand
And never know a pilfering hand.
All's safe upon my pantry shelf.
I have no child to help himself."

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES—Judge Walter S. Gates grants Elaine Jacobs Barrymore a divorce from actor John Barrymore: "Take your decree and try to do better next time."

HOLLYWOOD—Isabel Leighton, author, finds it harder to interview film celebrities than European dictators: "After all, while Mussolini is a hero in the eyes of one nation, Clark Gable is an heroic symbol in 20 nations."

NEW YORK—Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick urges active social role on youth and says they should do more than "keep the law"; perilous as the class of lawless persons is to America, I think the second group, the merely law-abiding who just 'get by,' is more perilous because it is more numerous."

Today's Yesterdays—April 26, 1607—The F. F. V.—First Families of Virginia—found their preserves being encroached upon by a lot of foreigners. Three ships in command of Capt. Bartholomew Gosnold sailed into Chesapeake Bay with 105 immigrants who were to establish the first permanent English settlement in America (Jamestown.)

Note that this was 13 years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. A lot of persons seem to think Mayflower ancestry important.

Forgotten and neglected hero of the expedition was Gosnold, whose name, curiously, is not mentioned in most school histories. After being an associate of Sir Walter Raleigh in the short-lived settlement on Roanoke Island (N. C.) in 1584, Gosnold did not give up trying to plant the British flag in America, and can be given most credit for accomplishing it.

April 26, 1711—David Hume was born in Edinburgh, a future immortal as philosopher, historian and political economist. Before he was 25 he had written Treatise on Human Nature, which T. H. Huxley considered, "Under the circumstances, probably the most remarkable philosophical work, both intrinsically and in its effect upon the course of thought, that has ever been written." It brought Hume only $250.

April 26, 1785—John James Audubon was born in what is now Haiti. For a long time it was believed May 4 was his birthday; recent scholarship of Prof. Francis Herrick, of Ohio, has established April 26 as correct.

Audubon's Birds of America, in five volumes, sells for as much as 6,000 a set now. It gave him an immortal reputation as America's greatest ornithologist, yet he couldn't find a publisher for it in this country, and he had to work as a sign-painter to accumulate enough money to go to England to arrange for publication.

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Governors don't care how high federal taxes are. Neither do state legislators.

All that these regional folk are answerable to their voters for is the taxation rate within the borders of their various commonwealths. If they can make Uncle Sam carry the bulk of the load, they can say that the responsibility isn't theirs; it's the Washington administration's and congress'.

Mayors are the same way. Their essential interest is to keep their respective municipalities' local levies down.

POLITICAL ANGLE

To the taxpayer it does not, in reality, make a bit of difference whether he foots the national relief bill, for example, through his own city hall, his county seat, his state capital or the United States treasury.

What does it matter whether the bill is paid locally or lumped together?

The total is so-and-so much either way.

It matters to politicians, however.

Assume that a governor or a mayor is trying to make an economical administrative record. If his state or his city must carry its own relief burden, it runs into money. If Washington shoulders it, it doesn't show in that particular community's bookkeeping.

The taxpayer is sure to yell, but the governor or mayor rejoins, "Yes, but that's a federal tax you are yowling about; here at home we are as economical as may be."

NEW SYSTEM

Hence we have had governors' and mayors' committees representing to the Washington administration, right along, that they cannot have relief re-loaded onto them, as it used to be, for generations; Uncle Sam must take care of it.

I can remember, and until rather recently, when relief was a county job—the poormaster's.

It wasn't a nice business, but maybe its un-niceness could have been corrected locally as well as nationally. Its beneficiaries were not politically powerful, anyway. A pauper didn't count much. Now, on relief, he's a formidable consideration politically.

The old system had its inhumanities.

This one has its drawbacks, too.

RED CROSS CASES

A smallish community may be swamped.

A one-industry town may be overwhelmed by the temporary collapse of that one industry and honestly required outside help. Or there may be a flood or other disaster—too sudden for one limited section to deal with alone

Here's a case for the Red Cross, of course, and perhaps subsequent rehabilitation

EVEN NEW YORK

But Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York maintains that his little bailiwick is unable to take care of its own destitution without federal aid. He's been a leader among mayors who have been demanding federal relief.

I knew Mayor La Guardia as a congressman—and a grand, good liberal

But this is a little too much.

New York City demanding federal relief, contributed to by little Podunks throughout the nation!

And La Guardia isn't a Manhattanite, either. Originally he hails from Arizona.

PASS THE BUCK

Briefly, how can the federal government be asked to economize, with local government being constantly called on to carry the federal burden?

In short, nobody wants to be taxed.

Each wants to have the tax wished onto someone else.

Guess which one will be stung with it!

Circus Girls Are Versatile

Pretty Little Lillian Lane Trains Elephants, Rides Horses, And Does Air Act

WITH BIG SHOW HERE ON MAY 7

A girl must be versatile about a big circus, must be talented in a dozen different spheres, and it may be said of pretty Lillian Lane that no feminine member of the enormous Hagenbeck-Wallace circus displays her diverse entertaining gifts over a wider and more varied field.

Miss Lane, a miss not towering much over five feet and with a wealth of gorgeous hair framing a piquant little face, with every outward indication that she would scream and run at the first sign of a terrible mouse, enters the arena with a herd of mammoth elephants and sends them through their paces as easily as she would a bevy of fluffy kittens at home.

At other intervals in the program, Miss Lane rides a dancing horse and mounts the slender swinging ladder. After passing through this routine twice daily, to the delight of the circus fans, she has all the rest of the time to herself, except making the parade every morning. Versatility is Miss Lane's other name.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus with a huge program and performance will make its appearance in New Castle on Friday, May 7. The long two mile street parade will leave the circus grounds at 11 a. m.

If you would know whether a group is unpopular, observe whether Mr. Roosevelt contrives to get it lined up against him.

Drivers of three trucks confided they were broke when state highway patrolmen stopped them at Temple, Texas, and said they would have to pay fines or buy license plates. "Then we'll have to hold your merchandise," said the patrolmen. "Okay," chorused the drivers. The patrolmen took one look and ordered the trucks to proceed. They were loaded with circus lions.

During a fifteen-minute recess of court at Butler the case of Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Kinsey of Akron, O., against Rev. W. E. Schramm of Butler, was settled. The plaintiffs' attorneys were asking $1,000 damages for Mr. Kinsey and $1,500 for his wife. The case grew out of an automobile collision between two machines October 21, 1932, in which Mrs. Kinsey was seriously injured.

Among the rules for male escorts who are "rented out" by Miss Shirley Seiler in San Francisco for $5 an evening are: only three drinks an evening, home by midnight or the fee doubles, no future date-making, goodnight kisses only at the lady's request. When the escort calls, his client hands him an envelope containing the fee, another containing as much money as she wants to spend. From then on the party proceeds without embarrassment.

Effective at once "the pupils of Buckingham high school, Buckingham, Bucks county, will positively NOT be permitted to trap skunks before school". With this ruling, Supervising Principal R. Chapman Carver expressed himself officially on the skunk question. The order came after a number of the students had gone into the skunk-catching business to earn money for a trip to Washington.

The 70 foot flag pole on the court house lawn is getting its spring outfit of gray paint. N. P. Woodward was given the job of painting the pole and the job was done Saturday.

In court room number two on Saturday Judge W. Walter Braham heard the petition to re-appoint Ray Aylesworth as receiver for the Pittsburgh Company in Ellwood City. The hearing was merely a formality there being no protest against the appointment, Mr. Aylesworth having served for several years. The appointment for another year was made effective May 2 by the court.

County Commissioners George H. Bolinger and Floyd L. Cotton announced today that registry assessors of the boros and townships should not come to the court house this year for registry books due to the fact that the new permanent registration law for boros and townships will be in effect. The law has passed both houses in Harrisburg, but a few minor amendments must be concurred in before it is signed.

Following the final passage of the law the commissioners will set three days, probably in July and August when registrars will sit in the various polling places outside the city and permanently register the rural voters.

For the rural voter it will be something new, having to go to the polls to register. Heretofore they have been registered by an assessor and the probabilities are that for a time the registration figures in the county will show a slump.

Once money is paid over to the state it isn't often that the county gets it back. The unusual happened Saturday when Ed Riley, an agent for the revenue department walked in and laid down a check for $2100 on the county commissioner's desk.

The money represents the county's share paid to the western penitentiary a year ago for repairs made there on account of the flood. The General Assembly passed a bill authorizing the repairs and setting aside $100,000 for the work. For some reason the money was charged against the counties and the counties paid the bill. Recently the department of revenue found the mistake and is returning the money to the counties.

Information reaching the commissioners is to the effect that the bill which would have the revenue department collect all the personal property tax and return the county's four mills will not go through. It seems that the act would cut out some job holders in some of the larger counties and this would never do. So the bill seems to be securely pickled deep in the legislative pickle barrel.

Repairmen were rushed to the Harrison bridge on Saturday when a truck driver hit the structure instead of the cartway. The bridge went down at one end and will take considerable repairing.

AROUND CITY HALL

First annual training school for Pennsylvania traffic officers will begin today at State college. Their instructors will be outstanding traffic engineers, police officers, educators and specialists in safety. Traffic has become one of the biggest problems in the county. This city is not represented at the school. At present there are several men serving as temporary policemen, pending the return here of Harry Reese and Jack Thompson who are undergoing a course of police training at the state police school at Hershey.

The city dog catcher has few idle moments on his hands these days. From early morning until after sundown he is kept travelling to various sections where dogs are said to be roaming as they will. It has been noticeable during the last year or more that few complaints have been lodged against the dog catchers actions. Whenever he secures a dog that has a license he notifies the owner he may have the dog by abiding by the law.

Glenn R. Throop, city engineer, said Saturday he does not yet know when Sumner avenue will be completed to such an extent that workmen can go to work on other thoroughfares to be graded and paved.

Child Health Day Observance Here

Public Library To Join National Child Health Protection Movement

On May 1, which has been proclaimed throughout the nation as child health day, the local public library will join in the campaign for the betterment of children's health.

Already Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian, has arranged a number of attractive posters, and is preparing a display for this day next month. On the shelves of the library are scores of books pertaining to health, and a number of these books deal chiefly with child health. These books will be featured on a special shelf in the library on May 1, and are suggested by the library for reading by the public.

This day is sponsored by the Child Welfare League of America, and they have prepared large attractive posters, stressing the need of taking care of the health of children. A number of these posters have been placed on display at the library by Miss Joyce.

STAGE STARS HATE TO QUIT

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 26.—Diary: Up and ragged by my wife over my pronunciation of Cincinnati and Missouri and we almost had high words.

O. O. McIntyre

So afoot to sit with Lisle Bell, the book critic, brought to bed six monts ago with a fractured leg, and he has composed a wheel chair theme song "Aw, knits!"

A pleasantly thoughtful note from the Postmaster General, and Martha Dean came by and left a bouquet for us. And talking to Ward Morehouse whose newest play has just been produced with captivating Peggy Wood as star, and I regard him as one of the crack pamphleteers in America.

Dined at Belle Meuniere with the tarveled Hattie Bell Johnston, embarking shortly for South Africa and will see Sara Millen and visit the Holy Land after ten years. So to the Chatham to bestow a farewell kiss on Kathleen Norris against Charles G. sailing away with her for the London coronation.

At Dunhill's Jermyn street shop in London there is in a glass case the original pipe Sir Walter Raleigh brought back from America, the first in the old world. It is crudely made but highly ornamental. When Irving Berlin was in London some time ago he offered $5,000 for the pipe. For the moment they were overwhelmed, as one of the early Dunhill's paid only $375 for it. After thinking it over several days, they decided to keep the pipe and present it eventually to the British Museum or perhaps the Henry Ford early American collection.

On of the surest ways to lasting literary popularity it would seem is to create a likeable fiction character. If the public goes for the creation the market is almost inexhaustible. They will want him again and again. Some of the notable examples are Montague Glass' Potash and Perlmutter, Octavus Roy Cohen's Florian Slappey, Tarkington's Penrod, Ring Lardner's You Know Me Al, H. C. Witwer's dumb prize fighter, Hugh Wiley's Wildcat, Edna Ferber's Mrs. McChesney, Irvin Cobb's Judge Priest, and, of course, Tugboat Annie.

Personal nomination for the best of the many impersonations of George Arliss—that by Mitzi Green.

Actors and actresses of the stage seem never able to make their final curtsey when Time had relegated them to what should be a pleasant obscurity. There have been several instances in New York lately of former stars trying to make the headlines and actually making themselves ridiculous. Even the great Bernhardt could not resist the temptation to hobble about on crutches, thus bringing the public to see her more as a freak than a great artist. Among the few outstanding who have not tried to "sneak a bow" are David Warfield, Mrs. August Belmont, Maxine Elliott, Maude Adams and Sothern and Marlowe, grand troupers all.

Even sedate dressers are going hotsy-totsy in their jaunty light topcoats. The new style is a Duke of Windsor whim—a dash of checks or stripes that suggest the race-course and other outdoor sporting events. And are worn only now and then merely for variety and the heck of it. Some are one-toned—a light blue, coffee colored or such. Made with a rakish belt and raglan sleeves.

Louis Sobol in his rounds of Broadway discovered the one-time popular singing star, Charlie King, singing from table to table in the cafe of a hotel. Sobol noted the engagement and King was immediately given a contract for a part in a forth-coming Broadway production—which is as it should be. King's rendition of "The Wedding of the Paper Dolls" in one of the first musical revues on the screen was just one of his achievements in putting a song over. In vaudeville days he was often a headliner at the Palace and not many performers had his gift for wearing full dress or tamping a silk hat at that just-so angle.

Bagatelles: The longest proper name in English composed entirely of vowels is Aeaea (Circe's isle.) . . . The Watterson Rothackers have been touring old Mexico. . . . Best winter ton: Lee Shubert. . . . Chaplin has taught Paulette Goddard to sing his hilarious Parisian ditties. . . . Ford Madox Ford, the author, learned to dance only recently, beginning with the rumba. . . . Jacques Danielson, Fannie Hurst's husband, is touring Europe with Heifetz as his piano accompanist.

Red to the ears note: We were talking to a certain lady about a remote house on Long Island for the summer. And she observed she would like to have the chauffeur live on the place. Adding: "I would not want to live in the country without a man around."

Flood Damage At Sewage Plant Cause Of Suit

Grove City Case Is Before Mercer County Court For Decision

MERCER, April 26.—The first document of its kind in Mercer county as far as the records obtain is the petition filed here today asking a declaratody judgment of Judge George H. Rowley in which the borough Grove City is the complainant and the Henry J. Shank company of Erie and the United States Fidelity & Casualty company are defendants.

The borough contracted with the Shank company January 13, 1936, to build an addition to the city sewage disposal plant located on the banks of Wolf creek. The Fidelity & Guaranty company bonded the company, the two furnishing bond to the sum of $67,856.

On January 24, 1937, the work was almost finished. On January 25, 1937, the banks of Wolf creek overflowed damaging the new work to the extent of $50,000, so alleges the petition of the borough.

The contractor alleges the damage was not due to any negligence on their part and contends that the borough must put the plant in condition to finish. The borough contends that the contract covers this damage. The court will be asked to decide whose responsibility it is under the contract and precedents of law.

The hearing will constitute one of the few hearings in Mercer county where this "Act of Providence" listed in contracts is the subject matter of the law.

W. W. Neighbour, of the Wilmington road, is receiving the congratulations of his friends today on his 90th birthday anniversary.

Mr. Neighbour is perhaps the oldest living member of the First Baptist church and a fitting tribute was paid to him in yesterday's issue of the church organ, "The Reminder."

The church people a few days ago paid honor to Mrs. Jennie Stauffer, of Highland avenue, on her 89th birthday. They are also proud to have as a member Mrs. John Martin, of Park avenue, who is also in the circle of oldest members.

Mr. Neighbour resides with his son-in-law and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Woodrow.

Endurance Contest Planned by Union High Birdmen Club

Model Airplanes Being Built For Display At School's Exhibit April 29

Members of the U-Hi Birdmen club, sponsored by the Union township high school, are now busily engaged constructing model airplanes to be entered in a flight endurance contest and placed on display at the township schools exhibit on April 29. A contest is planned between the models, with a number of prizes to be awarded the winners.

The planes will be flown in the athletic field at Union high, on Scotland Lane, preceding the school exhibit, and then they will be placed on display, the winners being designated.

James Dean heads this club, and according to him, he expects a total of about 35 planes entered in the contest. He also stated that in order to be eligible the plane must be capable of staying in the air, under its own power, at least two minutes. Many spectators are expected to witness this contest, and therefore the time of the show will be announced later.

Shipment of live mice in the United States mails is prohibited, Harlee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, notified postal authorities here today. Cooperation Is Necessary To Control Floods

Secretary Of War Woodring Delivers Talk To Rivers And Harbors Delegates

(International News Service)

WASINGTON, April 26.—Federal cooperation with the states is "essential" if the scourge of disastrous floods such as devastated the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys this winter are to be curbed.

This was the assertion today of Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring to delegates attending the 32nd annual conference of the National Rivers and Harbors congress.

"The importance of our navigable waterways for interstate commerce and the provision of measures to prevent and protect against floods in interstate streams are undoubtedly of federal significance and can be carried out only with the active participation of the federal government," Woodring said.

Closer Cooperation

Woodring, expressing his gratification at the "prompt action" of Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts in agreeing on an inter-state compact for flood control in the Connecticut river valley, declared:

"This compact, if adopted by the states and approved by congress, will point the way to a closer cooperation between the states and federal government in the executon of measures for the conservation and utilization of our national water resources.

"These states desire to retain a measure of state control in reservoirs provided within their jurisdiction, as do the states of Pennsylvania and New York, who have already enacted legislation to provide for full cooperation with the federal government.

No wonder the English smile. They have a swell spectacle coming and somebody has shown them that Italians can be licked.

Creek Overflows In Bedford County And Causes Some Trouble

(International News Service)

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 26.—High water, caused by the overflowing of Wills creek at Hyndman, Bedford county, 78 miles east of here, today washed out considerable trackage of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad main line forcing it to reroute six of its passenger trains through here.

At Connellsville the crest of the Youghiogheny river reached 15.42 inches, 2.42 above flood stage. Within the past 24 hours 1.65 inches of rain have fallen here. A high wind during the night accompanied the rain, blowing down telegraph and telephone lines of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The amount of damage caused could not be immediately ascertained.

Flood Control Plea Is Made

State Senator William B. Rodgers Of Bellevue Pleads For Flood Control Action

NO TIME TO WASTE SOLON CONTENDS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A fervent plea for flood control action was made here today by State Senator William B. Rodgers of Bellevue, head of the U. S. flood control federation, as western Pennsylvania rivers surged above flood stage, wreaking new havoc over the already flood-plagued countryside.

"For all we know, the worst flood America has ever seen is looming over the horizon—a storm cloud that will pour down on us 50 per cent more water than came in the St. Patrick's day flood or the flood of last January," Rodgers, who is also president of the Tri-State Authority, told the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Cannot Delay.

As Rodgers spoke, the Ohio river was creeping over flood stage almost within sight of his home near Pittsburgh.

"Plans for control are ready to go ahead without a moment's delay," Rodgers told the congress.

"A counsel of delay does not square with the grim reality of the flood menace, a reality which means the ever-present threat of cold, hunger, injury, death and property loss to thousands of our people."

Rodgers reviewed the many flood control studies made in the upper Ohio basin almost continually at a cost, he said, of $1,092,000.

"Is it any wonder that we lose patience when someone tells us that a carefully prepared program is lacking? We have enough studies. What we want now is action.

Never Far Wrong.

"The hunches of the American people have never gone far wrong. Today they have a hunch that flood control is needed immediately. They are willing to back up their hunch with many millions of their own dollars.

"The people are in no mood to countenance further delay.

"If any enemy army was marching fully armed toward our borders, would we pause to debate whether or not our plan of defense was complete? Would we decide to postpone action until we had made further studies.

Have Control Plan.

"Of course not! Whether our military plans were perfect or not, we would act immediately.

"I can assure you that what we want in Pittsburgh and what we think we have is a flood control plan that actually does hold water—flood water. Furthermore, we want construction work to start not next year or five years from now, but no later than July 1, 1937.

Attempted Jury "Fixing" Case Will Be Aired

Somerset Grand Jury To Hear Evidence In Case, Margiotti Is Accuser Of Two

(International News Service)

SOMERSET, Pa., April 26.—Charges of attempting to "fix" the jury which convicted State Trooper Stacey Gunderman of second degree murder were to be laid before the Somerset county grand jury today.

Two men, R. E. Buckman, a private detective, and Thomas Courtney, a coal operator, were accused by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, special prosecutor in the cases.

Buckman and Courtney were arrested and held for court when S. N. Lowry, a jury constable, complained to Margiotti, who was prosecuting Gunderman for the alleged "third degree" death of Frank C. Monaghan, 64, a Uniontown hotelkeeper.

Lowry accused Courtney of coming to him with a plan of "plenty of money to 'fix' a couple of jurors" because Gunderman was 'a nice boy and ought not to be convicted". Lowry accused Buckman of bringing Courtney to his home. Lowry said he had reported the incident to Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey who was presiding in the case.

TROOP NO. 5

Croton M. E. Troop No. 5, Girl Scouts, made plans for a skating party instead of the regular meeting for this week, at their last week's meeting in the church basement. Patrol corners were held, games were played and the girls working on their first class badges worked on junior citizenship. The meeting closed with taps.

Scribe, Marjorie Allen.

TROOP 18 MEETING

Troop 18 held its regular meeting in Orr's social hall, Grove street, on Wednesday evening. The girls opened the meeting with the formation of patrols and the transaction of business.

Interest groups were formed, with the second class girls working on their nature study project while the Tenderfoot girls studied signaling. Games and songs were the diversion for the remainder of the evening, with the singing of taps closing the session. A short court of honor was held after the meeting.

Scribe, Beverly Reinhart.

CATALPA TROOP

The Catalpa troop of Girl Scouts met at the Neshannock public school house last week. The tenderfoot girls studied knot tying under the supervision of Mrs. Esther Earl, while the second class scouts discussed plans for a tea to be given on May 7.

Scribe, Donna Brooks.

America's great need at present is a short word ending in "ism" to fit what we're doing.

Report Of Flood Fatal To Woman

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 26.—Mrs. Missouri Hurley dropped dead at her home here today a few minutes after a neighbor informed her "there was a flood".

The elderly woman asked her son to go to the cellar to see if any water had entered. He returned with a report of two inches of water, whereupon the woman collapsed. A physician blamed her death on a heart attack.

Handball Has Use Of Scientific Value

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 26. — To thousands of persons who frequent gymnasiums, the familiar handball is little more than an object of recreation and exercise. But to science it is a valuable asset, reported Dr. W. R. Kirner, of the Coal Research Laboratory of the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The little ball is used to eliminate vibration in the mounting for micro-chemical balances, which are extremely delicate instruments for weighing minute quantities of materials.

T' is fine instrument, which under suitable conditions, is capable of weighing a maximum load of 20 grams (about three quarters of an ounce) with an accuracy of one to two millionths of a gram, must be free from vibration and must be housed in a room which has a practically constant temperature and humidity, and which is free from dust and dirt.

To protect the balance from vibration, it is mounted on a small platform which is held up by 16 ordinary handballs. These balls are arranged in pyramid form, four balls to a pyramid, and one set under each corner. The platform itself is a sheet of lead weighing 125 pounds and this weight presses on the four pyramids and gives the system the necessary stability so that a slight touch on the platform produces very little lateral or vertical motion.

The efficiency of this support as a vibration asborder is readily shown by setting a shallow dish of mercury on it. Even when strong vibrations are articically set up, by pounding on the table on which the support rests or by jumping up and down on the floor near the balance, or by slamming doors, the mercury surface remains calm. If the dish of mercury is placed elsewhere in the room its surface is in a constant state of agitated motion.

Other precautions to keep dust and air from the delicate parts of the balance are necessary, Dr. Kirner said. If they are unheeded the michrochemical balances will either fail to function entirely or register inaccurately, he claimed.

NEW INDUSTRY

Editor News:

"New industries has been the cry." Well New Castle is about to overlook an industry that is one of the leading and future industries of the nation. At the present time they are looking for a factory site.

About a month ago a fire wiped out the entire factory of the Taylor Airplane company in Bradford, Pa. The loss was around $200,000 and very little fire insurance was carried by the concern.

At that time, the Taylor Cub company was building 18 planes a week and were backloged in orders. The Taylor Cub company last year manufactured more planes than any company in the United States. The production in 1935 was 220 planes, while in 1936 the production was 550 airplanes. The company at the time of the fire was working on three shifts a day.

New Castle has one of the finest airports now under construction on the Youngstown road. The field will be rated A-1A by the department of commerce when completed.

The city has laid out $15,000 in the land. The city expects returns from the port, so why not endeavor to get the Taylor Airplane factory located here. Not all the land at the site will be used for runways, so Mr. Councilman why not donate 15 acres of land to the Taylor Company, tax exempted for three years.

This would bring from 300 to 800 men to New Castle, meaning three-quarters to a million dollars to be spent in New Castle each year. It would therefore, Mr. Merchant and Mr. Councilman, be a good idea if some move would be made to get the ball rolling for the factory location in this fair city.

New Castle is ideally located for the airplane factory. It is close to the source of raw materials, and is also ideal location for shipping the planes to the flying market.

New Castle has long been noted as a place with a high standard of living at a moderate cost, in comparison with other cities about the country.

With the co-operation of the New Castle Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Junior Chamber of Commerce, New Castle should be able without much difficulty to secure this industry as a permanent establishment.

Come on New Castle, let's boost aviation.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM H. ICE,
201 Boyles avenue,
New Castle, Pennsylvania.

Edenburg Span Being Painted

Coat Of Steel Gray Paint Being Applied To Span Of New Viaduct

Finishing touches are this week being applied to the new Edenburg viaduct. Painters have erected their scaffolding and have started to apply an attractive coat of steel gray paint to the structure.

When the bridge was opened for traffic several months ago, the structure was left unpainted, because of the cold weather. Paint however, was put on the small span over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. The painters are now completing the job by painting the iron work on the main span over the Mahoning river.

JR. C. OF C. TO DINE

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will discuss chamber matters following a dinner in a downtown tea room tonight at 6:30.

INDIAN SLAYER HAS CONFESSED

Ronald Jones, 36, Confesses He Killed John L. Stokes Believed To Be A "Witch"

(International News Service)

YUMA, Ariz., April 26—Ronald Jones, stolid 36-year old Yuma Indian today confessed he killed a compatriot John Lee Stokes, 58, because he thought Stokes was a witch officials announced.

After hours of grilling, Jones is said to have broken down and admitted he crept up on Stokes while the latter was asleep and bludgeoned him to death with an axe.

Believed Right

"He's a witch—and it's no crime to kill a witch," was the only explanation the Indian would give to officers.

Police pointed out that according to the code of the Yuma Indians, killing a witch is not wrong. They said they believed Jones only did what he believed to be right.

The crime was discovered when Stoke's body was found on the highway 12 miles from the Indian reservation a week ago.

Jones, the officers said, admitted he had carried the body the 12 miles in an attempt to make police believe stokes had been the victim of an auto accident.

Jones refused to say why he thought Stokes was a witch, officers said.

Dr. C. C. Green Is One Of Speakers

Compliments Colleges Of District On Amateur Athletics Program

MANY EDUCATORS ATTEND SESSIONS

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, April 26.—"The colleges of Western Pennsylvania are to be complimented for championing of amateur athletics", Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of New Castle schools told district educators in the school administrators conference held at Westminster Saturday. "No school anywhere should place athletic victory above all else in the lives of its students."

Dr. Green spoke of the public school as a "laboratory of citizenship rather than a lecture room".

Dr. James N. Rule, Langley (Pittsburgh) high school principal emphasized democracy in education and maintained that education must always be kept open for all students, college as well as public schools.

"We learn only what we live," Dr. Rule declared. "Young people in Langley high investigate conditions in Pittsburgh, and learn by first-hand information. Full opportunity is given each student to reach the fullest possibility of his potentialities."

Part-time cooperative classes in industry and business in which students work half of the day and go to school the other half, Dr. Rule said, had met with great success.

"It isn't enough to be good, when you speak of school.. developing character," Dr. Rule concluded. "The important thing is being good for something."

Speaking on teaching tolerance in teaching history, Dr. Leon Marshall, acting history department head, maintained that much of what is called "history" is really propaganda and misguided thinking.

"History itself is made by erring men," Dr. Marshall said. "Students should be taught to examine the world as they find it, and be prepared to make changes if necessary. They should, for instance, question whether 'liberty' as it is used in the constitution means liberty to sell guns and ammunition to war-wracked Europe or the right of employers to import cheap labor from Europe."

"Every use of force, such as the recent sit-down strikes and the Spanish war indicate our failure to adjust ourselves to ideas in a civilized manner, Dr. Marshall concluded. "If this use of force continues, we will lose our freedom to criticize, and with it democracy.

In closing Dr. Marshall pointed out that freedom of opinions should be guaranteed teachers in school systems by administrators, and that the requirement of nine hours of college credit in history, held by the state of Pennsylvania should be doubled to insure history teachers with the ability to teach their subject intelligently.

"Indifference to democracy is one of our greatest faults," Prof. E. T. Miller, department of Economics said, in relation to the attitudes necessary to maintain democracy in an industrial civilization.

He stressed the necessity for maintaining democracy at all costs and the belief that the rights of minority groups must be kept if democracy is to be maintained.

Boy's And Girl's Week Starts Today

Exhibit Of Hobbies At Public Library Feature Of Youth Week Observance

Beginning today and lasting until May 1, National Boy's and Girl's Week, honoring the youth of America will be celebrated throughout the land. Many plans have been made for the local celebration of this week in New Castle.

This display can very realistically take one to all parts of the world, show various occupations, types of vehicles, scenic views, and tales of adventure of by-gone days. The display arranged by Miss Alice Joyce, is very attractive, and shows exceptional talent upon the part of those who have made the entries.

Additional hobbies will be added to the exhibit throughout the week, up until Thursday, at which time no more entries may be made. After this time, all of the hobbies will be arranged for viewing by the public.

Queen Mary To Wear Robes She Wore In 1902

Beautiful Robes Stored Since Coronation Of Edward VII To Be Used

(International News Service)

LONDON—Queen Mary was understood today to have decided to wear the same robes she wore as Princess of Wales at the coronation of King Edward VII in 1902 when she attends the crowning of her son, George VI. in Westminster Abbey May 12 next.

The robes are of true royal purple, lined with white satin with deep borders and facings of ermine, a perfect setting for the queen-mother's magnificent diamonds.

The historic purple robe, which has been carefully stored since 1902, has an inner border of three graduated lines of gold, and its cape of ermine is "powdered" all over with the little round black speck that distinguishes this fur.

The robe is attached to the shoulders with large pearl and gold bows.

Two trainbearers will carry the rich purple drapery as Queen Mary proceeds to the special seat to be allocated to her in the royal box, facing the coronation dais.

Postal Authorities Nab Chain Postcards

Cards, Not Letters, Land On Postmaster's Desk; Are Forbidden

The "chain letter" fad propped out anew here over the week end—and ended just about as quick as it began.

Postal officials reported, however, that it was a "chain postcard" effort, and they said that was one of the reasons the attempt was a failure. Anyone can read a postcard's contents—and postal officials too, and when they spotted what was on certain cards, they had to do their duty.

"It was an attempt to start a chain movement locally" commented one official," but, naturally, that's a plain violation of the postal laws. This effort involved a scheme for getting dish towels."

The post office destroyed the cards and warned that "chain letters of any kind is not tolerated in the mails."

Dr. P. Shoaff Will Deliver Series Of Talks During May

Program Being Planned In Conjunction With "National Child Health Day"

In conjunction with "National Child Health Day," starting May 1, Lawrence County Medical Director Dr. Paris A. Shoaff is planning a series of instructive medical talks which will be given at various parent-teachers meetings in the county during the month of May.

May first has been designated by Congress and by proclamation of President Franklin D. Roosevelt as "National Child Health Day" to stimulate interest in, and appraisal of, child health conditions and community organization for child health and to plan for health protection for every child during the coming year.

Observance of Child Health Day in Pennsylvania is of particular interest and importance at this time. May 1 will mark the opening of the Annual Summer Round-Up of preschool children for the purpose of putting them in the best possible physical condition before they enter school next fall. As part of the celebration of Child Health Day, the State Department of Health will resume also its campaign to immunize children against diphtheria and secure correction of physical defects before they start their school life.

Secretary of Health, Doctor Edith MacBride-Dexter endorses the principles and ideals on which Child Health Day is based, and urges every citizen in Pennsylvania to join in with the organizations participating in this program to make the celebration of Child Health Day and the Summer Round-Up of 1937 the most successful ever attempted.

Classic Three-Piece

This classic three-piece suit, so good for any season of the year, is the choice of Dorothy Lamour, screen player. It is beige kasha with fox collar. The skirt has a suggestion of a flare, and the short jacket is collarless. The topcoat is a swagger in seven-eighths length, and both jacket and coat are trimmed with stitching. Brown straw hat with matching quill piercing the crown tops her outfit.

"Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" first read "Life, liberty and property". The old boys thought they meant the same.

"Bat-Man" Dies In Paris Plunge

Clem Sohn, American Performer, Is Killed In Exhibition Event

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 26.—"Clem must have fainted. . . ."

That was the only explanation Mrs. Art Davis, life-long friend of Clem Sohn, American "bat-man" and wife of his former stunting partner, could give today for Sohn's fatal plunge in an exhibition of his bird-like soaring at Vincennes.

"Otherwise he would have pulled the rip-cord of his second parachute earlier, I believe."

Mrs. Davis was one of the throng of 200,000 who watched with horror as the 26-year-old barnstormer, who had twice escaped death by narrow margins, dropped 600 feet to instant death.

Borough Denied Right To Build Own Power Plant

State Superior Court Reverses Decision Of Late PSC On Myerstown Project

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—Reversing the old Public Service commission, the State Superior court today denied the borough of Myerstown the right to build a municipal powerplant.

The order by the old commission had been widely heralded as opening the way for municipalities to compete with public utilities.

The opinion in the case was written by Judge Chester H. Rhodes, the first Democrat to be elected to the appellate bench in many years.

"The commission may not arbitrarily or capriciously authorize competition in one municipality and deny it in another similarly situated," Judge Thodes' opinion read.

"So far as the present proceeding is concerned, the same finding and order could be made upon the application of any municipality when the commission thinks the municipality could earn a fair return by putting the existing company out of business."

Granted By P. S. C.

The case went to the superior court after the commission had granted the borough of Myerstown a certificate to build a $125,000 electric light and power generating plant. The Metropolitan Edison Company, which had been supplying Myerstown exclusively with power, protested, complaining that:

"The order of the commission is not based upon findings of fact supported by competent and revelent evidence."

The borough claimed it would lower rates and give better and more efficient service if its request were allowed, but to this the court answered:

"No evidence was introduced before the commission to sustain either of these averments; the commission has made no such direct findings; and the evidence afford no basis for such inferential conclusions."

Airplane Builder Lauds City's Airport

New Castle's airport came in for high praise from William H. Piper, owner and president of the Taylor Aircraft Company, of Bradford, Pa., in a talk Piper had with Rex L. Patch, this city, in Bradford over the week-end.

Mr. Patch was one of a Junior Chamber of Commerce group that went north a few weeks ago to urge Piper to locate a new airplane plant here. On Saturday, however, it was learned that Lock Haven, Pa., had been chosen.

"Mr. Piper appreciated the junior chamber's interest," said Mr. Patch. "He spoke well of our airport—but the airport at Lock Haven has a river nearby and I think that played a part in taking it there. At Lock Haven they are going to make aquaplanes and the river will be a help."

Mr. and Mrs. Patch were in Bradford to visit their daughter Dorothy, a school teacher there. Patch and Piper are personal friends.

Dean Hands Cubs Defeat

"Dizzy" Fans Ten Cublets As He Wins Second Game Of Year

INDIANS UPSET BROWNS 5 TO 4

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 26—Apparently determined to carry out his announcement that he would pitch the St. Louis Cardinals to the National League pennant, Dizzy Dean today was credited with his second straight shutout, after another brilliant mound performance.

The big right-hander pitched one of the greatest games of his career in turning back the Chicago Cubs by a 4 to 0, allowing only five hits and striking out 10. While adding to the Cardinal's pennant chances, he also began a quest for the strikeout championship which he let slip to Van Mungo of the Dodgers last season.

But apparently neither Dean nor anybody else will take the strikeout crown without a tussle. The Giants have a pitcher who will offer an argument, although he is a newcomer to the big time.

Bees Sting Giants

Cliff Melton, making his debut at the polo grounds for the champion Giants, fanned a total of 13 Boston Bees to approach the National League record, but, however, he still lost the ball game 3 to 1, allowing only six hits.

He met an old master in Guy Bush, who twirled for the Bees and likewise allowed six hits, meanwhile biding his time to cash in on a win. Two were out in the ninth and the score was tied at 1-1 when the Bees managed to score two runs to sew it up.

Grimes Chased

In the only other National League game, Buddy Hassett hit a home run in the 11th inning to give the Brooklyn Dodgers an edge and they added more runs to beat the Phillies, 10 to 6. Manager Burleigh Grimes was chased from the field by the umpires.

In the American League, the world champion New York Yankees hammered out a win over the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 3, causing pitcher Wesley Ferrell to make his first temperamental display of the season. He petulantly stalked off the mound in the seventh. Meanwhile, Bump Hadley was forced out of the game by the Sox and Pat Malone pitched sparkling relief ball. The Cleveland Indians beat the St. Louis Browns by 5 to 4 in 11 innings, and the Chicago White Sox won the day's only other game by 11 to 7 from the Detroit Tigers.

Polish Falcons Honor Championship Teams At Banquet Event

Credit was given where it was properly due on Saturday evening when the Polish Falcons honored their championship basketball teams at a banquet in the Falcon hall on Miller street. Approximately 150 men and women attended the affair.

This year's records were the best of a long series of brilliant performances on the basketball court. The senior team, amateur champions of New Castle and Lawrence county won 32 games and lost 12, while the junior team had an even more impressive record, winning 26 and losing but two.

Babiarz General Chairman

The affair was in charge of Frank Babiarz as general chairman and following the service of the dinner he spoke briefly before introducing Stanley Augustyn as the toastmaster of the evening. The invocation was delivered by Rev. Adam Walichiecz, pastor of the Holy Trinity Polish National church.

Mr. Augustyn paid a fine tribute to the work of the basketball teams and the coach, Marion Kolodjeski, in opening the speaking program. With his words of praise went a word of caution to the boys to remember that past records do not guarantee future victories unless they constantly are on the alert.

Mayor Charles F. McGrath was the first speaker introduced by the toastmaster. The mayor lauded the work of the teams and congratulated the Falcons upon the fact that they devoted so much time and energy to the physical development of the young men.

Following Mayor McGrath brief talks were given by the following: Coach Marion Kolodjeski, Councilman Joseph D. Alexander, City Controller Earl R. Wimer, former city treasurer Louis W. McClung, William J. Connery, Rev. Adam Walichiecz and Bart Richards. Mr. Augustyn then introduced the chief speaker of the evening, Attorney George W. Muse.

Witty Address

Mr. Muse made one of his typical addresses. Sandwiched in between shafts of wit were some serious thoughts. He reminded the basketball players that the fine edge of condition which they now enjoy could soon be lost forever unless it was carefully guarded. He said that in his experience as a criminal attorney he had seen but few athletes brought into court for violation of the law. He spoke glowingly of the high ideals of the Falcon organization and the work they are doing with young men and boys. Mr. Muse's address was thoroughly enjoyed judging from the ovation he received as he concluded.

During the program Toastmaster Augustyn presented each of the players to the crowd and each one was given an individual ovation.

The dinner was served by the ladies of the Falcon auxiliary. Music during the evening was furnished by a trio of stringed instrumentalists.

The following members of the Polish Falcon "Big Five" and Reserves were honored at the banquet: Russell Kawa, Henry Koszela, Joe Augustyn, Walter Kwolek, "Gabby" Kendra, Eugene "Ratsy" Kendra, A. Sniezek, J. Sniezek, Joe Kolodjeski. The Reserves—G. Kendra, M. Sniezek, E. Noga, W. Kwolek, E. Koszela, E. Wenda, S. Potoczny, F. Smoasarski, L. Kwolek, E. Maslyk, H. Dluganski, J. Boron, E. Kendra, A. Frankovitch, J. Vincey, W. Damaskon and V. Ryglinski.

Marion Kolodjeski coached the Falcon "Big Five" and Henry Koszela handled the Falcon Reserves.

U. S. Olympic Hopes High

United States Should Win 1940 Games At Tokyo, Japan, Says Coach Robertson

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 26.—Here's one bet you can't lose—Uncle Sam to win the 1940 Olympics at Tokyo.

For that you have the assurance of Dan Ferris, veteran sage of the A. A. U., Lawson Robertson, famous Olympic coach, and a host of other track and field experts.

"Apparently," said Dan today, "we are growing our boys bigger, stronger and faster, and judging by the results of the Penn relays I can't see where any other nation has a chance with us."

The experts were particularly impressed with the performances of Indiana's great quartet — Mel Trutt, Jim Smith, Tommy Deckard and Don Lash—who set a new world's record for the four-mile relay Saturday.

Were Not Pressed

"There's no telling what those boys might have done had they been pressed," said Robertson, after watching them reel off the four miles in 17.16.1. "Jimmy Smith reeled off his mile in 4.14 but the ease with which he did it makes me believe he could have come near to record time for the mile if he had to. I actually believe that if Hornsbostel, Venzke, San Romani and Cunningham, who held the previous record, had been running against them, we would have seen a four miles done under 17 minutes."

The experts also were particularly struck with the running of some of the spindly legged high school and prep school boys who gave promise of record smashing performances in their collegiate years.

COLORED LEGION TEAM

The Colored Legion baseball team will have an important meeting at the Lincoln-Garfield school, tonight it was announced by Walter Smith. Mr. Smith will direct the team this year.

American Legion, Perry Gaston post's junior baseball league will get under way at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday with several games, providing the fields are sufficiently dry, according to Frank Wood, chairman of the baseball committee.

The best players from the league will be merged into a team that will represent the Perry Gaston post against Legion juniors from other posts. Many fast players are on the six teams.

The schedule for Tuesday at 4:30 p. m. follows:

North Hill vs Mahoningtown at Mahoningtown.

West Side vs Colored Boys at Ryantown.

East Side vs South Side at Gaston park.

The Saturday schedule follows:

West Side vs Mahoningtown at Mahoningtown.

South Side vs North Hill at the George Washington field.

East Side vs Colored Boys at Ryantown.

Wood is having difficulty securing baseball fields, he stated today. He is still angling for the plots on which the boys can play. He reports that indications are the junior circuit will be a fast one.

Golfers Scan Rainy Skies

Scholastic And Collegiate Golfers Will Have To Postpone Matches

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—Scholastic club wielders watched dripping skies with glum eyes today as they chafed at a possible delay in starting the 1937 season.

Twenty-six high schools, including Johnstown, a newcomer, will start the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Conference schedule tomorrow on 13 different courses. Six sections make up the circut which comprises Allegheny, Beaver, Butler, Cambria, Lawrence, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

Turtle Creek high, winner the last two years of the conference title, will start the season by teeing o'' against Wilkinsburg at the Edgewood Country Club. New Castle will be the only idle entry as the result of an unbalanced schedule in Section 6. Two matches will be played in each of the five other divisions.

Washington and Jefferson will open the collegiate season against Waynesburg tomorrow. Wednesday will find all district teams in action, Pitt meeting Waynesburg and Carnegie Tech and Duquesne clashing. Friday, Duquesne will meet Geneva and on Saturday Pitt and Tech and Thiel and Allegheny will joust.

Dr. Carl Schott Gets State Post Held By Bezdek

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 26.—Dr. Carl P. Schott, present director of physical education at West Virginia university, Saturday, was named dean of the school of physical education and athletics at Penn State College.

He succeeds Hugo Bezdek recently resigned. The announcement was made by President Ralph D. Hetzel following a meeting of the trustees of the college.

Dr. Schott, said Hetzel, "is eminently qualified to administer the manifold responsibilities which fall to the lot of an educator entrusted with caring for the health and physical well-being of 5600 men and women students and the supervision of a program of inter-collegiate athletics as approved by the board of trustees in 1930."

Rain Curtails Baseball Play

Incessant rain all day Sunday made the scheduled Ryantown-Colored Elks game an impossibility Sunday, as the Ryantown field was nothing short of a quagmire.

It will be several days now before the fields will be fit for play.

There were a number of baseball practices called for over the weekend and these also had to be called off. It will take a couple of days of good warm sunshine to dry out the fields.

Bread without wheat is not new. During the siege of Paris in 1590, bread was made from bone dust. In Iceland it has been made from powered codfish and in Ireland it is often made from potatoes.

TALES IN TIDBITS

By BILI BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 26.—SOME THINGS I WOULD LIKE TO SEE THIS YEAR: Rogers Hornsby standing up there to bat against Bob Feller . . . Old Man Forty-One against Little Boy Eighteen . . . twenty-three years between them . . . and what years for Hornsby!

Babe Herman staging a comeback with Detroit . . . always a likeable, willing, courteous guy, Mister Herman . . . and poison when he gets into a hitting mood . . . by the way, Babe isn't a bad outfielder, either, despite all those stories about him catching fly balls on the conk.

Al Simmons proving, in a Washington uniform, that he's far from through . . . Al was in an embarrassing position in Detroit . . . younger players were waiting for his job, and his presence caused some discord on the club . . . though Al is every inch a gentleman personally, and was well liked by everybody in Detroit, even the lads whose future he was holding back.

Babe Ruth taking the managership of a ball club, and being listed as an active player, too, so he can step in there and belt one once in a while.

Frank (Shanty) Hogan, who actually has taken off 50 pounds (he weighs 230 now) catching a full season for the Senators.

The Pirates staying right at the top all the way to October . . . because the team has had more than its share of bad breaks in the last five years . . . and because Pie Traynor is the kind of a fighter who ought to be rewarded with a victory once in a while.

Jimmy Braddock performing another miracle and stopping Joe Louis (though I'm afraid there isn't a very hot chance).

An umpire calling a man out and keeping both feet on the ground at the same time. (Why not leave just a little bit of that acting for the wrestlers?)

Hal Schumacher winning 20 games. (There's one of the gamest guys that ever lived.)

Burleigh Grimes poking an umpire on the nose. (But I'm going to fool you and not name the umpire.)

Red Ruffing being traded to the White Sox and winning five games from the Yankees. (The reason Col. Ruppert refused to meet Red half way was the principal of the affair, of course, and not a few lousy dollars.)

Earl Sande winning some big races with the horses he is training for Col. Maxwell Howard . . . they say this Sceneshifter is an outsider at the Derby, but you must always look out for a horse with a name like that.

The United States Davis Cup team winning the trophy. (They are a nice bunch of boys and they don't make much money.)

Nine More Days For Tenpiners

Akron, Ohio Bowler Hits 705 Series In Singles Event

By GLEN R. BIRCHARD
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 26.—Indications are that the pay-offs against the $145,420 prize fund of the annual American Bowling Congress tournament will be on approximately the same low-in-the-money scores as last year in spite of there being more than $30,000 to shoot for this year.

Some 450 teams are yet to roll the remaining nine nights of the tourney and, at present the score of 2,690 still is in the money. In the doubles event it is 1123, in the singles 576 and in the all-events 1809.

Akron Man Hits 705

Last year the low team pay-off was a score of 2703, doubles 1135, singles 582 and all-events 1811. There are 686 team prizes this year as compared to 480 last, 1180 two-men prizes to 923, 2357 individual prizes to 1859 and 238 all-events prizes to 178 of 1936.

Over the week-end but one leader change was effected, this coming when John Gumbosh of Akron, O., hit a 705 to register ninth in the singles. A 684 by Vic Szieva of Grand Rapids, Mich., and 665 by Harold Asplund of Denver, Colo., were next best.

Albert Baum and Alfred Machurias of Milwaukee set the two-men pace on the Sabbath by getting a 1295 for eleventh place. Their games were 422, 446 and 427. The 1251 of Lee Buknovik and John Dugosz of South Bend stood next.

Rckford, Ill., via Bevo's place, produced best team mark of 2959 last night, Pohlmeyer's Diamonds of Norwood, Ohio, being next with 2899.

New Castle Club To Meet Tonight

The New Castle Rifle Club will have a meeting and practice shoot at the Cathedral range tonight at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced by Leo W. Hill. Plans will be discussed for the coming club banquet to honor the champions of the Ohio-Pennsylvania Rifle League.

Friday night of this week the locals will have a shoot here with the Chibridge team of Greenville, Pa.

City Baseball League Meeting At "Y" Tonight

Final Night To Enter League, Mahoning A. A. Expected To Join Up

The City Baseball league managers and officials will have a meeting tonight at the "Y" at 7:30 o'clock. The Mahoning A. A. team may appear at the meeting and take the eighth franchise in the league.

At the present there are seven teams. The schedule will be drawn up either Tuesday or Wednesday. No teams will be admitted after tonight. The franchise money can be handed in tonight if the teams desire, or can be paid at a meeting to be held to ratify the schedule shortly before the season starts on May 16.

Leo W. Hill has called a meeting of the umpires for Tuesday night at the "Y" at 7:30 o'clock. As yet no agreement as to the paying of umpires this year has been reached. There is a wide breach to be gapped.

Pitt Alumni And Varsity Will Battle

Coaches Fox And Milligan Will Have Charge Of Pitt Alumni Team

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—Pitt's 1937 football varsity will get its first competition since the defeat of Washington in the Rose Bowl when it meets a picked Alumni eleven on Trees Field next Saturday, May 1. It will be a real test, too, for the Oldtimers will be made up of men who have played during the past two or three years, and are in shape to play football.

Coaches Mike Milligan and Alec Fox are in charge of the old guard and they announce that they will have two veteran teams ready for action, so that the 1937 varsity will be up against a fresh team at all times.

The team again will be captained by rugged Dick Matosic, one of the finest passers in the national pro league, and Matty will be supported by an all-star cast, a bigger and better group of old timers than ever before.

Strong Lineup

The ends will be Ted Dailey, Bob Timmons, Harvey Rooker, and Vin Sites. Sites played pro ball last year and the other three are high school coaches.

At the tackles will be Jess Quatse, 1931 All-American now with the Pittsburgh Americans; Averell Daniell, 1936 All-American; Frank Walton, Stan Olekniczak, and Gene Stoughton, all high school mentors, and Art Detzel.

The guards will be Bill Glassford of the 1936 team, Ken Ormiston, Tar Onder, Leon Wohlgemuth, and Marwood Stark.

The center post will be held by Nick Kliskey 1935 captain; George Shotwell, 1934 All-American; Cleon Linderman and Charley Gongloff.

In the backfield there will be Johnny Wood, Leo Malarkey, Bob LaRue, Arnold Greene, John Dougert, and Bob McClure of the 1936 team; Hub Randour and Len Rector of the 1935; Heinie Weisenbaugh, Mike Nicksick, Art Ruff, and Izzy Weinstock of 1934; Bob Hogan from 1933, and Warren Heller from 1932.

The game will not be open to the public, but is to provide the present squad with some real opposition and also serve as the feature of an annual get-to-gether of the oldtimers. It will be followed by a party given by the present coaching staff.

UMPIRES WILL MEET

There will be a meeting of the Lawrence County umpires association at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced by Leo W. Hill today. All men who expect to umpire games this summer are asked to be present.

Breezy Sport Notes Around Pennsylvania

By DICK SHANER
International News Service Sports Writer.

PITTSBURGH, April 26—Strange things do happen these days....A glance at the American and National league summaries will easily convince one of that...and almost disprove the old saying that the day of miracles is past.

It isn't so surprising to see the Pirates on top of the heap with four straight...but when Connie Mack's A's not only climb out of the cellar but go clear to the top of the first division and lead the league...that's really something. Philadelphians should mark that down as a red letter day.

Consigned to the basement by practically every sports writer, the A's stirred up old time memories when they opened the season with a bang by winning one...But shades of pink elephants!...Who's ever thought they'd win three out of four and front the American league list. It seems almost unbelievable. Should it be called inspiration or desperation on their part

And for a wild pipe dream...Suppose the A's would bump off the world champion Yanks in today's game. It'd be enough to throw any "expert"—those guys who brag how good they are in calling their shots—into hysterics. But alack and alas, it seems almost too much to hope for. It's as wild a pipe dream as the fable that some day baseball fans will travel between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia for the world series.

Anent the Penn relays, held Friday and Saturday, Pennsylvania high schools didn't do so good in the mile relay event, which is considered "the" event to win.

Only three Pennsylvania schools, Springfield (Delaware county), Upper Darby and Altoona, won one of the 20 heats. New Jersey schools turned out the greatest number of winners, grabbing 11 of the 20 races. New York schools captured six heats and were triumphant in the championship of America one mile relay, the crowning achievement of any quartet of relayers.

Growing huskier and heavier continually, Billy Conn, Pittsburgh's outstanding middleweight, is slowly heading for a divorce from that division. Preparing for a bout with Vince Dundee here next week, Conn tipped the scales at 163, giving his trainers room to predict that he'll fight only about a half dozen times more as a middleweight then jump into the light heavyweight class. Although only 19 years old, Conn has compiled a record of 29 straight wins. Dundee will be the second ex-champ to face him. Recently Babe Risko of Syracuse, the lad who dropped Monaca's Teddy Yarosz in a title bout, was added to his growing list of victims.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL.

This will interest Herb Smith . . . I was in the audience Saturday night and what did you say about knees shaking . . . that was a nice strong speech holder you were using . . . Herb that was a mighty fine talk . . . your voice was nice and steady in spite of the fact that your knees were a little weak . . . you sure know your A B C's when it comes to New Castle . . . Give it to them.

* * *

Did you know that the Junior Chamber of Commerce made up of young business men of New Castle has more life and spunk than all your service clubs put together . . . they are the ones that will make it possible for you to buy food etc. in the future . . . why not help them when they ask for help.

* * *

It looks like a big month ahead . . . at least the first day will be, a big one . . . the victory parade and a circus . . . that is enough for any man's day . . . the rest of the days will be filled also . . . think of all those appointments you have for next month . . . May is a great month.

* * *

Red in Wampum . . . your last correspondence was miss-laid . . . it turned up today in the weekly clean-up . . . that was a very good point and it deserves a little comment . . . it would make it easier for a person to park his car if lines were marked on the streets . . . in fact I am in favor of the Park-O-Meters . . . motorists would keep within their lines then . . . a fellow wouldn't have a chance to park his car on the street all day . . . at least, not for nothing . . . that is what happens on our streets everyday . . . some office worker parks his car in the morning on one of the main streets and it sits there all day long . . . if he must park it down town why not use a parking lot . . . if that is too expensive he could at least park it on a street that has little traffic . . . I could mention names but I won't . . . you know who you are . . . I wouldn't want to miss anyone . . . the traffic department alone can not remedy this situation . . . you, the people must help some . . . use your initiative.

ESTRANGED HUSBAND MASSACRES FOUR

ried too far. I love you, Thelma. Forget me now. Go see my mother as soon as possible. Give to mother for Jeanette the wallet. If you think this hasn't taken nerve, try it."

The note was signed "John", and was found near the slayer's body in a bedroom at the Kirker residence by Miss Kirker's two sisters three hours after the mass killings.

Police characterized the killings as the most gruesome in police annals here.

They learned that Owens and his wife had been separated since last September and that Owens had begged his wife to divorce him.

She refused, they said, believing her husband's infatuation for the Kirker girl would be short-lived.

Police learned bare details of the crime from Owens' small daughter, who sobbed out the story of how her "daddy" had run amuck with the gun.

President Halts Railroad Strike

Issues Proclamation Shortly Before Noon That Emergency Exists

BULLETIN
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Moving to avert a strike of 25,000 railroad and shipping workers which would paralyze the eastern section of New York, President Roosevelt by proclamation today declared an emergency existing under the railway labor act, and created a board of three to mediate the dispute.

The effect of the president's action is to prevent any walkout for the next 30 days while the emergency board conducts hearings and renders a decision.

Mr. Roosevelt acted shortly before noon, when a strike deadline had been set, on the advice of James W. Carmalt, chairman of the national mediation board, who reported "the situation appears extremely critical" and threatens to seriously interrupt traffic in the metropolitan area of New York City and the eastern section of the state.

FLOOD STAGE AT JOHNSTOWN

4 o'clock this morning and hundreds of employes were frantically working to remove the stock after an early morning summons to work.

Early reports from Somerset county indicated Hooversville was flooded with several feet of water. It was still rising there.

Boswell, including its lumber operations, was flooded.

The lower Cambria Works of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in Johnstown were inundated.

Trolley Service Stops

Trolley service was stopped at 6:15 this morning and there was no means of transportation except by automobile and a few busses.

The Casselman river in Rockwood went over its banks early this morning and Main street was covered by a foot of water.

The main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks also was under water and through trains were stopped.

At Somerset, David Grove, U. S. weather observor, reported rainfall was almost three inches since Saturday night.

The South Fork branch of the Conemaugh river at South Fork left its banks at 4 o'clock this morning. The trestle of the Stineman Coal Company at South Fork was washed away. The water had nevertheless dropped more than seven feet on the South Fork branch at 7:30 this morning.

Residents of Holsopple, on the Stony Creek river, were awkened at 4 this morning and ordered to move their household furnishings out when the river left its banks there.

Nearly Four Inches Of Rain

The highway between Holsopple and Hooversville was inundated.

Rainfall in Somerset since 10 o'clock Saturday night totaled 3.62 inches, according to David Grove, the U. S. weather bureau observor there. A total of 2.6 inches of rain fell last night, Grove reported.

Stony Creek river reached the 17.3 foot stage shortly after 8 o'clock. U. S. army engineers predicted the crest here would be about 20 feet.

Five inches of rain fell in Somerset county preceding the flood in March, 1936.

The northern part of Somerset county was isolated, rivers and streams in that section going over their banks and inundating the highways.

FIVE CARS HIT BY ONE DRIVER

Strogrune, New Kensington bound towards Pittsburgh, approached the New Castle-bound McCulloch car as five others were following it. Suddenly the Strogrune car swerved into the side of the McCulloch machine, sideswiped the three cars immediately following and crashed into the fifth in line.

The local party was completing trips to two conventions when the accident came. Mrs. McCulloch, regent of the Lawrence county chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, had attended a D. A. R. convention in Washington and had been met by Mr. McCulloch and the Paisleys after they had arrived in the capital from last week's district conference of Rotary clubs in Uniontown. Mrs. Woodworth had joined the group yesterday at Chambersburg, Pa.

Mr. McCulloch is past president of Rotary here and Mr. Paisley is secretary now, and both had represented the city at the Uniontown sessions.

Corporal Keck stated today that Strogune was arrested on a charge of reckless driving held pending a hearing tonight before Justice of the peace Joseph McHale, of Muddy Creek.

The cars involved in the accident were driven by Harold R. McCulloch, this city, Clay Slick, Cleveland, Edward G. Elmore, New Castle, William J. Hay, state policeman of Erie, Strogune, and a car the driver's name of which has not been learned.

Asks City To Pave Northview Avenue

When council convened in the City building this morning a petition was presented by abutting property owners for the curbing and paving of Northview avenue between Highland avenue and Carlisle street. The petition was sent to councilmanic committee. Under the plans the city would purchase the materials and the WPA would provide the labor. The cost of the materials later would be assessed against the abutting property owners.

Requests WPA To Approve Repairs To Sanitary Sewer

During council meeting at the city building today council voted to ask the WPA to approve a project for the repair of the Seventh Ward main sanitary sewer which runs from man-hole No. 6 near the ejector station to the sewage disposal plant. The project would cost the city and federal government a total of $50,724.10, of which the federal government would be asked to pay $30,030.50.

However, while the council asked approval of the project, Mayor Chas. E. McGrath and Councilman James L. Fink said they would not vote for the work to actually start until after they had discussed the problem with state health authorities and the expenditure could not be avoided.

Under WPA regulations in force now the city must sign to complete all projects under way should the WPA work stop June 30. This is another phase that the city council will consider before the work gets under way.

According to Councilman J. D. Alexander, B. F. Butler and City Engineer Glenn R. Throop, the repairing of the line is a vital necessity to the proper operation of the disposal plant.

Alexander argued that by asking the WPA to approve the project it would save the city several weeks time were it decided finally to do the work.

Justice Cardozo delivered the opinion of the court, which both reversed the Ohio supreme court and remanded the case for further proceedings.

Water Hits Heat At W. P. A. Offices

Water in the cellar of the Works Progress Administration building on South Mill street today was responsible for the entire force of employes being sent home. The furnace cannot be operated due to the high water and the building is cold. With the exception of some department heads all of the force were permitted to go home.

A pump is coming in this afternoon but it is feared that while the water in the rivers is high this will back up water into the cellars, and render the work of the pumps useless.

Chinese peasants are so ignorant. If crops fail or they fall sick, they blame their gods instead of the Supreme Court.

Maybe She Likes Ice Cream

Little Pauline Locher, 4-year-old inmate of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Orphans' Home, gave national ice cream week a running start as she did justice to this enormous cone. Gallons of ice cream disappeared as if by magic at the festive party held for the orphans. (Central Press)

FLOOD THREATS AS HEAVY RAINS FALL IN STATE

foot, a foot and a half above flood level, and U. S. engineers predicted a crest of 30 feet.

The rivers reached flood stage of 25 feet shortly after 11:30 E. S. T., here today.

Indirectly, the flood was held responsible for one death. An elderly Johnstown woman died of a heart attack when she learned water was flooding her cellar.

A 30-foot stage in Pittsburgh, would send water over the edges of the "Golden Triangle" business section and into basements of stores and office buildings.

Rainfall over the Allegheny average 2.25 inches since early yesterday and on the Monongahela two inches.

W. S. Brotzman, U. S. government forecaster, predicted a crest considerably above flood stage of 25 feet by tonight.

Brotzman said the riger might reach 30 feet, five above flood level, by early tonight.

At Pittsburgh, police banned parking on the wharves along the rivers. One-third of the Monongahela wharf was under water and two-thirds of the Allegheny wharf was covered. Houseboat owners scurried to Moore their crafts more securely.

Rain Continues

Brotzman predicted the rain will continue generally throughout western Pennsylvania most of the day.

In Johnstown, several families prepared to move into second floors. A telegraph office in the downtown area reported it will be flooded if the river continues to rise.

Small streams became raging torrents as the rain continued without break. Brotzman explained the hills and ground were fully saturated and unable to absorb the unusually heavy precipitation.

Over the Allegheny watershed, the rainfall the past 24 hours ranged from 1.5 inches to 2.02 and as much as 2.48 inches.

The Monongahela was rising a foot an hour from Fairmont, W. Va., to Brownsville, Pa., under the impetus of a two-inch rainfall.

Officials of the big power dam at Lake Lynn on the Cheat river near Point Marion said they had opened 17 wickets and might be forced to open 35 more gates, throwing a heavy burden of water into the Monongahela.

Brotzman said the rainfall measured an inch and a half in Pittsburgh last night and two-thirds of that was registered between noon and 8 p. m.

Highway Flooded

West of Ligonier, the Lincoln Highway was flooded for about 200 yards with from three to six feet of water. Traffic was detoured over the William Penn. Many rural roads were impassable. A landslide closed Route 906 between Monongahela, Webster and Monessen. Mountain communities reported streams rising above their banks.

Meyersdale, Rockwood and confluence home owners prepared to evacuate as the Casselman river continued upwards. The river was reported a foot over flood stage at midnight at Confluence.

On the Monongahela, Lock No. 5 was closed this morning when the river poured over the lock walls at a stage of 21.5 feet. Coal shipments were halted. Rainfall at the lock measured 1.8 inches in 24 hours.

Parkers Landing on the Allegheny expected a flood stage of 18 feet early this afternoon.

At Franklin, where French Creek pours into the Allegheny, the stage was 10 feet early today and rising rapidly to flood stage of 15 feet.

At Freeport, families in low lying sections were moving upstairs. The river at Lock 5 there was seven tenths of a foot over flood stage of 24 feet. The lock will be closed when the river rises another foot. Rainfall was 2.48 inches and the rate of rise .7 of a foot an hour.

Ask Flood Work Along Big Run

Council met in the city building today and sent to committee a petition from Pennsylvania avenue residents which asked the city to put through the proposed improvement of Big run for the purpose of preventing floods.

Some time ago the city said they had been advised that the government engineers would not approve the project. However, the city is yet working on the problem, it has been learned.

Water Overflows Lincoln Highway

But Stretch West Of Legonier Is Reported As Reopened To Traffic Today

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 26—Closed for several hours when the Loyalhanna creek overflowed its banks, the Lincoln highway west of Ligonier was re-opened to two-way traffic early today, state highway officials announced here.

With the exception of a few secondary rural roads, which are flooded, the officials said they did not consider the highway situation serious. Latrobe, however, faced nigh water with the Loyalhanna creek and tributary streams in that district reported rising.

Highway authorities said the Monessen-Webster road was closed due to the Monongahela river hurdling its banks but they expected it to be re-opened by noon.

In the Kiski Valley no serious flood danger was felt imminent unless the heavy rains continue, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in Pittsburgh re-routed its eastbound passenger trains through Greensburg today via the Monongahela division due to high waters in the Cumberland Valley.

CARNEGIE-ILLINOIS ABANDONS COMPANY UNION SPONSORSHIP

plants of the Company a Plan of Employee Representation, an organization through which the employees in each plant engaged in concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid or protection of employees.

The company was advised, and believed, that these plans as constituted and as administered were proper and in conformity with law.

Each of said plans applied to only such of the employees as may have chosen freely and of their own volition to avail themselves of the machinery thereof for the presentation and adjustment of any matter which, in the opinion of said employees or any group thereof, required adjustment.

On Monday, April 12, 1937, the Supreme Court of the United States announced its decision in certain cases, under which decisions it may be held that certain of the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act apply to the existing plans of employee representation. To remove any question as to whether said plans are in all respects in conformity with said act, it is necessary that the company discontinue any financial or other support to the existing plans or participation therein, and any recognition of any representative elected thereunder as a representative of the employees. To this end and effective at once, the company

a) Will discontinue any financial (contribution to the plans.

(b) Will not furnish any facilities for the election or other activities of the employees or employee representatives under the plans.

(c) Will not furnish any stenographic or other office service, or facilities for the activities of the employees or representatives under the plans.

A statement of this position of the company has been made by it in the proceeding involving said plans before the National Labor Relations Board; a copy of that statement is attached and other copies of the statement will be posted on the bulletin boards at all plants.

The provisions for amendment of the plans require, in one form or another, the participation of the company in amendments of the provisions affecting the company. These provisions affecting the company are those relating exclusively to the company or to the joint procedure for adjusting grievances involving action by both the company and the employees or their representatives. The company considers that all provisions of the plans relating exclusively to it or to joint procedure involving action by the company are in effect eliminated from the plans and no longer affect the company. The company waives any right of participation in any amendments of the provisions of the plan. Thus any action which the employees may desire to take under any of said plans and all of the provisions of any of said plans may be determined by the employees in such manner as the employees alone may decide.

B. F. FAIRLESS,
President.

Abandon Sponsorship

Washington, April 26—The biggest subsidiary of United States Steel—The Carnegie Illinois Steel Corporation—today abandoned all sponsorship of company unions.

In a brief appearance before the National Labor Relations Board, a Carnegie Illinois attorney, William Beye, notified the government that in line with the Wagner Act decision of the Supreme Court it will not longer contribute support to nor participate in existing so-called employe representation systems among the employes in its plants.

SEAGULLS REPAIRED

On a cliff at Cornwall, England, a bird's hospital has been established to repair the injury done to seagulls by passing ships. The founder is Miss Phylis Yglesias of Mousehole, that famous fishing village near Penzance. In spite of protests ships continue to discharge oil and seagulls are clogged by it. Their wings cannot lift them and they perish miserably. Fishermen and children take the injured birds to the hospital.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—HE GOES BACK

Grasshoppers Proved Traffic Law Violators

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 26.—That the red-legged grasshopper is the hit-and-run driver of the insect world was announced today by an experimental scientist at the University of Pittsburgh.

He didn't exactly reach that conclusion, but he did find that the little melanoplis femur rubrum—or, as we plain folk say, the red-legged grasshopper—will "crash" a red light sooner than a 10-year-old boy can say "Grasshopper,. spit tobacco juice".

Until recently nobody even thought a grasshopper could tell one color of light from another. But Harold E. Howland worked diligently all winter in his laboratory in Pitt's Cathedral of Learning on the optical problems of the 'hopper.

Red Light Attracts.

He put grasshoppers into a box containing red, blue and green lights. A few of his subjects immediately hopped to the blue or green lights. But an overwhelming majority made a bee-line—or, shall we say, a grasshopper streak—for the red light.

Mr. Howland also found that the hit-and-run drivers of the grasshopper world are incurable. A 'hopper which "crashed the red" on his first visit to the color box always chose red thereafter.

Same with the "law observing" grasshoppers that like blue or green. When those grasshoppers like a color, they like it.

If you come into contact with a melanoplis femur rubrum this summer, take a look at his head, and you'll see three eyes, a simple eye in the middle of his forehead and two complex eyes, one on each side of his head.

Mr. Howland found the grasshopper is blind as a bat in the simple eye. He blindfolded their complex eyes, and then at three grasshopper paces they couldn't tell a crisp piece of lettuce from a rubber band.

Carpenter Suffers Broken Back In Fall From Ladder

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., April 26.—Charles Holmes, 65, of Mercer, a carpenter, was admitted to the Mercer Cottage hospital late Friday afternoon suffering injuries sustained when a rung of a ladder on which he was standing broke, allowing him to fall 12 feet to the ground.

X-rays show Mr. Holmes to be suffering a broken back, several broken ribs and lacerations. His condition is reported as serious at the hospital today.

This is the second carpenter in Mercer to receive a broken back from a fall within a week.

Add last words: "I wonder if that dark spot ahead is a shadow or a truck parked without lights."

Make Reports Of Minor Accidents

Police Hear Of Several Traffic Mishaps In City Over Week End

Police received reports of several automobile collisions Saturday and Sunday in this city. Some of the automobiles involved were damaged. However no persons were injured in the accidents.

Victor Pagley, Steubenville, and George Matish, 1907 Pennsylvania avenue, own cars that were in an accident at Moravia street and Terrace avenue at 1:15 a. m. yesterday. Pagley claimed that Matish backed a car from Terrace avenue into his machine.

Angelo Pandolfe, 1109 West Washington street, reported he parked his auto in front of his residence and claimed it was struck by a car with Pennsylvania license 559F3 enroute west in West Washington street at 6:30 p. m. Sunday.

Police received a report at 4 p. m. Saturday that when Allen L. McVicker, West Pittsburgh, stopped his car in Moravia street at Long avenue, it was struck by an auto driven by Mack Rowe, 325 Locust street.

When an auto pulled from a curb in Croton avenue near East Washington street, Harold Wechtenhiser, 415 Neshannock avenue, applied the brakes of his auto which was going west in Croton avenue and an accident resulted between Wechtenhiser's car and one driven by Kurt Kuehner, 20 East Main street, which was going east on Croton avenue, at 6:45 p. m. Saturday.

Joseph Mundziak, 1330 Sheets St., reported that at 6:30 p. m. Saturday a car ahead of him stopped. Mundziak also stopped his car. However, an auto following struck his auto, he reported.

Arthur Mitchell, 1818 East Washington street reported that at 7:40 p. m. Saturday his auto was sideswiped by an auto driven by Bernard Suchy of 1019 North Ashland avenue, on Mahoning avenue at the viaduct. This caused Mitchell's car to strike a machine driven by Wilmot Smiley, Mitchell reported.

FELLOW-WORKERS GAVE THIS TIN MILL MAN GOOD ADVICE

Suffered From Constitpation Since Childhood, Used Nearly Every Kind Of Medicine He Heard Of, Was Getting In Bad Condition. Took New Root, Herb And Alkaline Medicine Vendol, And Is Like Different Man, He Says.

MR. H. F. ROWLAND

Thousands of bottles of Vendol have been sold to people who took it on the advice of some friend whom it has helped. That is the secret of this medicine's amazing popularity, and that is the reason why, right here in New Castle, such a tremendous record-breaking sale has been built up on this root, herb and Alakaline compound which is being introduced to local sufferers by the Vendol Man in New Castle Drug Co.

One of the many well known citizens who began taking Vendol on the advice of his friends is Mr. H. F. Rowland, of 809 E. Main St., New Castle, popular employee of the Carnegie-Illinois Tin Mill, who says:

"You wouldn't think that a person as young as myself could possibly have so much wrong, but for years I suffered with a large number of complaints. I have suffered from constipation since I was a child and have tried about everything I heard of for this trouble. I have been for days without an action. My skin looked dull and sallow, I had a bad taste in my mouth, and just felt disagreeable in every respect.

"My condition became noticeable, so some of my friends at the Mill advised me to try Vendol, as it was so highly spoken of here in town. I did, and now I feel world's better.

"Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets relieved my constipation like nothing ever did, and now my elimination is good, my digestion greatly improved so I digest anything without distress, gas or acidity. My nerves calmed down so that I sleep sound, skin has cleared up and I again feel like my real 35 years instead of like 75, as I used to. I am glad to return the advice given me. I hope many sufferers will read this and be helped."

All leading druggists sell Vendol, and the Vendol Man is now at New Castle Drug Co., 31 E. Washington St., daily meeting crowds of people and explaining all about this remarkable medicine. Come see him, learn how it will help you. Vendol is also sold by the New Castle Drug Co., at 24 N. Mill St.
